SHOT HIS WIFE AND HIMSELF.

Shocking Murder and Suicide of a St. Louis Couple.

NAPPERS OF FINNEY AVENUE.

Mrs. Napper Followed Her Husband to Verona, Mo., Where He Killed Her and Then Committed Suicide.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., Oct. 7.—George Napper of St. Louis shot and killed his wife, Emma Napper, and then blew out his own brains at Verona, a short distance from here, yesterday. The murdered woman's sister, Mrs. E. D. Napper of St. Louis, was with her at the time of the tragedy and is now on her way home with her sister's dead body.

The deplorable tragedy is the result of a domestic quarrel. George Napper and his wife, who formerly resided in St. Louis, came here some time ago. He was a money-lender. They quarreled a few days ago and Mrs. Napper left home. She went at once to St. Louis to stay with her sister, Mrs. E. D. Napper of Finney avenue. Her sister advised against the separation and agreed to accompany her sister back to Verona and effect a reconciliation. After some hesitation—for Mrs. Napper knew her husband's temper better than her sister—she was prevailed upon to return.

Saturday night the two women left St. Louis and reached Verona Sunday morning. They went to Napper's home. He was sullen and would not listen to overtures towards reconciliation. The presence of his sister-in-law restrained him from any act of violence, but it steeled him against his wife. The woman spent a miserable morning. Mrs. Napper thought that perhaps she could do more with her husband alone.

She asked her sister to remain in her room while she went in to speak with him. She was gone some time and Mrs. Napper was beginning to think that after all her trip would be successful, when she was horribly undeceived by two pistol shots. They followed each other in rapid succession. She knew what it meant and, rushing out of the room, found her sister Emma and her husband lying in their death agony.

Medical aid was quickly summoned and everything possible done for the wounded woman, but her injury was mortal and she died within an hour.

Mrs. E. D. Napper at once telegraphed to Cullen & Kelly of St. Louis, and Mr. Kelly arrived on a morning train to take charge of Mrs. Napper's remains. Mrs. E. D. Napper will do nothing toward the burial of her sister's murderer. She passed through Springfield this morning with her sister's body, and will reach St. Louis to-night. She has a brother, Frank Brown, a stock broker at 103 North Third street, St. Louis.

Frank J. Brown, who runs a stock exchange at 108 North Third street, across from the Merchants' Exchange, is a brother of Mrs. Napper. A telegram was sent to him informing him of the murder and suicide and he at once put the case in the hands of Cullen & Kelly, undertakers at 1212 North Seventh street.

Michael Cullen, a member of the firm, left for Verona Sunday night to prepare the body for shipment and bring it to this city. He wired this morning that he would arrive on the evening train on the St. Louis & San Francisco road. The body of Mrs. Napper will be taken to Mr. Brown's residence, 4140 West Belle place, from whence the funeral will probably be held to-morrow afternoon.

Mr. Brown refused to give any information to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

Mrs. George Napper was a Miss Emma Brown and Mrs. E. D. Napper, her sister, was Miss Elsie Brown. They married brothers. The latter, who is several years younger than her murdered sister, was married before her, and it was through her that Emma Brown met her husband George. They are both daughters of Mrs. M. E. Brown of 3828 Finney avenue.

Mrs. Brown, when seen by a Post-Dispatch reporter Monday morning, said that Emma and her husband had never agreed. She had heard the news of the murder in a telegram from her daughter Elsie, but knew nothing of the details.

A brother-in-law of the murdered woman, Henry Carreras, a member of the firm of E. E. Carreras Printing Co., received his first information of the murder from a Post-Dispatch reporter. He did not seem to be much surprised. The married life of the two had not been a pleasant one. The husband was 60 years of age, double the age of his wife. When he married the deceased, four years ago, there were six grown children by his first wife. They strongly objected to the marriage. But the two lived happily together and two children were borne them.

"But the disparity in ages soon began to play a part in their domestic life. Mr. Napper took no part in social events. He had plenty of money, but he appeared to enjoy home life. Then when his wife would go out the grown step-children would have something to say about it.

Early this summer Mrs. Napper left her home and came here to live with her sister, Mrs. Carreras. She staid with her up to three weeks ago, when Mrs. Carreras induced her to return home. She accompanied her and remained a week.

After Mrs. Carrevas' departure Mrs. Napper is said to have left home again, returning last Saturday.

Mr. Napper was known as a good-hearted, whole-souled fellow. He owns an immense amount of property and his fortune is estimated in the hundred thousands.

SAVED A FOOT BALL.

The Street-Car Fender Put to a New Test Sunday.

Footballs are not as precious as babies, but they cost as much as four dollars. Therefore, when a crowd of Rugbyites at Vandeventer and St. Ferdinand avenue, Sunday afternoon, saw their precious ball kicked into the street just as a Lindell motor came flying down the track, they held their breaths. The ball nestled right in the track, and the motorman saw his opportunity to try his fender. He dropped it and it scooped the ball up in safety. If it had been a baby it would have done as well if the draw head had not interfered.

DON CARLOS IS COMING.

Distinguished Mexican Will Visit the Exposition in St. Louis.

Don Carlos Diez Guitierrez, Governor of the State of San Luis Potosi, Mexico, has signified his intention of visiting the St. Louis Exposition and Fair. Senor Guitierres came to the United States to attend the opening of the Atlanta Exposition. Recently the St. Louis Merchants' Exchange, the St. Louis Spanish Club and the directors of the Exposition sent invitations to him to visit St. Louis before returning to Mexico. Monday morning the following telegram was received:

Kimball House, Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.
T. B. Boyd, President Board of Directors, St. Louis Exposition, St. Louis, Mo.:

Profoundly gratified for your amiable invitation. I do not come as official representative, but will take pleasure in visiting your Exposition.

CARLOS DIEZ GUITIERREZ.

Gov. Guitierres is expected to arrive here Monday night or Tuesday. He will be entertained during his stay here by the Spanish Club and the Merchants' Exchange. He will witness the Veiled Prophet's parade and attend the ball. It is expected that this visit will aid materially in cementing the friendly relations between St. Louis and Mexico.

ANOTHER SITE CHOSEN.

J. L. D. McCarthy's 17-Story Building to Be Located on Chestnut Street.

R. Griffith, the millionaire mine owner of Denver, Col.; J. L. D. McCarthy of the McCarthy Architectural and Engineering Company of this city and others interested in the scheme to erect a 17-story building in this city held a meeting in Mr. McCarthy's office in the Commerical building Saturday. It was decided to locate the building not on Sixth and Pine, as was previously reported, but on Ninth and Chestnut. Mr. Griffin owns the northwest corner, measuring 65 feet front on Chestnut by a depth of 114 feet on Ninth street.

The lot at first selected by the capitalists was situated on the north side of Pine street between Sixth and Seventh streets, adjoining the alley. A corner lot was preferred, however, and Mr. Griffin's lot was chosen.

Plans of the building have been completed. It will be seventeen stories in height, built on a heavy granite foundation, on a framework of steel. The deal is nearing consummation.

Mr. Griffin expects to secure the patronage of many of the realty agents for the proposed building. Heavy stone vaults and other improvements for the special accommodation of realty agents and architects will be the inducements offered. It is likely that the Real Estate Exchange will occupy quarters on the top floor and that the building will be named "The Realty."

Local realty dealers are more than enthusiastic over the proposed "cloud piercer." It means much to St. Louis, especially to Chestnut street. The change of the site is heartily approved by them. Mr. McCarthy is managing the affairs of the backers of the scheme and is drawing the details of the plans. He has no doubt of the success of the deal.

A CONTINUAL GRIN.

John Eustice in a Serious Condition From Parental Obstinacy.

Like the unfortunate children in "The Man Who Laughs," John Eustice, 14 years old, is at the City Hospital with a perpetual grin. His mouth is stretched to twice its natural size and in this condition he sits day in, day out, with every muscle in his body twitching.

Young Eustice's condition is due to tetanus. Two weeks ago he was struck by a railroad train and his right leg was horribly mangled. Dr. Sutter decided that amputation would be necessary and he so informed the boy's parents, but they objected strenuously, saying that if the leg was bandaged and left alone the boy would get well. Dr. Sutter was obliged to comply with their wishes and so the leg was bandaged.

A week ago the result of not following a physician's advice began to assert itself. The poisonous matter in the wounded leg affected the boy's entire body and convulsions set in. Young Eustice's condition is very dangerous.

ALFRED L. AVERY CAUGHT.

The Defaulting Sport Captured at the Mexican Line.

The arrest of Alfred L. Avery, defaulting cashier of Messmore, Garnett & Co., also $1,300 short in his accounts with Mound City Lodge, National Union, of which he was Secretary, was accomplished Saturday night at Laredo, Tex., just as the fugitive was about to cross to Mexico. He was captured by a Deputy Sheriff. He had $9 and a revolver with him. He is believed to have hidden some of his spoils. The Deputy Sheriff has been promised $100 and 10 per cent of all money recovered. Avery will be brought back to St. Louis.

Dollie Wallace, who was arrested as Avery's accomplice and released later, has now disappeared and it is believed will await developments before emerging from her retirement.

Avery's crime was discovered Thursday, Sept. 26, when he was found to be $7,000 short in his accounts with his firm in the Chamber of Commerce, his shortage with the National Union being discovered at about the same time.

WORSE THAN FIRST REPORTED.

Eighteen Persons Killed in the Belgium Railroad Accident.

ONE HUNDRED INJURED.

Mme. Mourlou, Wife of the Well-Known Engineer, Was Among Those Killed.

BRUSSELS, Oct. 7.—Dispatches received here this morning from Wavre, fifteen miles from this city, where the collision between a crowded passenger train and an engine occurred last evening, show that eighteen, instead of ten persons, were killed and that one hundred persons and not forty were injured. Several of the wounded people are so seriously injured their lives are despaired of. There are no Americans among the dead or injured. The passenger train was just passing the railroad station at Mousty when the engine coming from Ottigules at full speed collided with it and telescoped three of the carriages. Relief gangs and medical assistance was promptly sent to the scene of the accident from all neighboring points and everything possible was done to succor the wounded, at least thirty of whom were in need of prompt assistance.

Among the passengers aboard the train were M. Beernaert, President of the Chamber of Deputies, and his family. None of them sustained serious injuries and the President was unhurt. Mme. Mourlou, wife of the well-known engineer, was among the killed.

MRS. LANGTRY'S DIVORCE.

It Is Said She Expects to Marry Sir Robert Peel.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—It has frequently been said of late that Mrs. Langtry's object in suing for divorce was to enable her to contract a marriage with Sir Robert Peel, whose attentions to her were not only the talk of Monaco, where it is said the couple first met, but also of half Europe. Mrs. Langtry and Sir Robert also spent some portion of the summer together at Baden Baden.

The "Jersey Lily" is at present in London. In reference to the rumor that Mrs. Langtry was to marry Sir Robert Peel, her counsel, A. H. Hummell, said:

"I have no knowledge that Mrs. Langtry intends any such thing, but it would not surprise me in the least, if, when her present marriage bonds are shattered, she should marry again, and possibly a scion of the British nobility.

"Under the laws of California Mrs. Langtry is entitled to a divorce on the grounds of non-support. She has been a resident and citizen of that State for seven years and owns a ranch in Calistoga, Lake County.

"The summons and complaint in her action are in the hands of our London correspondent for service upon the defendant, but until issue is joined no steps can be taken in court. The suit will not be tried in San Francisco, but in Lake County, where her interests are located."

TALKING OF THE FIGHT.

Delegations From Arkansas and the Territory at Dallas.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 7.—To the surprise of many Dallas people nothing was done to-day toward tearing down or resuming construction operations on the Corbett-Fitzsimmons amphitheater. The uncompleted building stands to-day just as it has stood since a week ago last Saturday. Dan Stuart has been in private consultation all day with a half dozen or more strangers at the headquarters of the Florida Athletic Club, but newspaper men know nothing of what is going on. It is said the visitors are delegations from Hot Springs, Ark., and Ardmore, Chickasaw Nation, bidding for the fight, and guaranteeing protection. Nothing positive will be known as to new plans before Wednesday. Ex-Gov. W. N. Jones of the Choctaw Nation was in the city last night, but declined to talk of the prize-fight. He was in company with the local officers of the Santa Fe road. His presence at this time was regarded as significant. It is believed he brought assurances that a license consideration might obtain consent to fight on Choctaw territory.

Before the Supreme Court.

AUSTIN, Tex., Oct. 7.—The Supreme Court this morning set the case of the Tax Collector of Hayes County in his mandamus proceedings against the Comptroller to force him to issue a prize fight license for to-morrow morning.

Longstreet, the eminent authority on bee culture, for twenty years a professor in Yale and for fifty years a leading minister of the Presbyterian Church, died of apoplexy. He was 85 years of age and was so feeble he was getting to speak.

GREAT TALK—LITTLE FIGHT.

Is This the Way the Great Sluggers Are Trying to Find a Place for the Fight?

COL. JONES' INJUNCTION SUIT

Judge Wood Announces That No Decision Will Be Given Before Thursday.

No decision was rendered by Judge Wood Monday morning in the injunction proceedings of Col. Chas. H. Jones against Joseph Pulitzer and the Pulitzer Publishing Co. The Judge announced that he had not had time to examine all of the citations made by the counsel in the case, and that when his court adjourned to-day it would be to meet in room No. 3 next Thursday, at which time he would announce his decision.

A large crowd of lawyers, politicians and department chiefs of the various newspapers had assembled in division No. 6 in anticipation of hearing the decision, and when Judge Wood announced the postponement disappointment was pictured on every face.

KILLED HIS FATHER-IN-LAW.

The Crime of James M. Frazier, a Missouri Farmer.

PLATTE CITY, Mo., Oct. 7.—Jacob Oxford, 62 years of age, whose farm is five miles north of this place, was shot and killed by his son-in-law, James M. Frazier, at Frazier's farm, near here. Two months ago Frazier and his wife quarreled, and she returned with her children to her father's home. To-day Frazier sent for his wife's father (Oxford), requesting an interview. Oxford and one of his sons went to Frazier's place.

When they arrived there Frazier came out with a gun. He told the senior Oxford that he had sent for him that he might shoot him down like a dog. Without further warning he shot and killed the old man. Young Oxford was not harmed. Frazier escaped on horseback. It is reported that a man answering his description rode across the Kansas and Missouri bridge at Fort Leavenworth later. Frazier had frequently accused old man Oxford of having caused his family trouble.

DISREPUTABLE MR. REAGAN.

When He Isn't in Jail He Makes a Fad of Saving Lives.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Yesterday Little Paul Murphy, 12 years old, while playing near pier 6, North River, fell into the water. He would have drowned only that Wm. Reagan jumped into the river and saved him.

"It's nawthing except I pulled him out," said Reagan, when he was asked about it. "I've pulled out forty."

Life-saving is Reagan's fad, just as other men make a fad of flying kites or riding a bike or collecting bugs. When Reagan speaks of the persons he has saved from drowning, it is with the same reserve that he tells of the terms he has spent in prison, and they are many.

Reagan's greatest swimming feat was in trying to save himself, or rather his liberty. He and a big longshoreman named Corrigan, known as "The Terror of the Anchor Line," had fought each other more or less for years. One night Corrigan came into the saloon at No. 127 West street and struck Reagan, knocking out several of his front teeth. Reagan struck back. He caught the big longshoreman on the jaw and he fell like a log. In two minutes he was dead. Without stopping to take off his shoes or coat, Reagan jumped into the North River at Vesey street and swam to the Erie Canal Basin in Jersey City.

While Reagan's rescues have been principally along the North River, he has saved people all about New York.

MASKED ROBBERS HOLD UP A TRAIN.

Frisco Passenger Train Attacked by Daring Bandits.

GOT BUT LITTLE BOOTY.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

FT. SMITH, Ark., Oct. 7.—The northbound Frisco train was robbed at Caston, I. T., fifty miles south of here, last night. There were six men in the party, and after holding up the train one stood guard over the passengers while the others cut loose the express car and ran it up the track. They failed to get at the through safe and the amount secured from the local, 85 cents, disgusted them, so they threw it on the floor and left it. They cursed the messenger for not having more more money and left. The train was crowded with people coming to Ringling's Circus, but the robbers said they did not want any thing from the passengers. A great sensation and almost a panic was produced among them by the action of a boy who became scared and ran. The robbers' guard told him to halt and fired through the bottom of the car, but the boy stumbled and fell and it was thought he was killed. The robbers were very cool and it is thought they were old hands at the business. It is laid to the Christian brothers gang, but at the United States Marshal's office it is thought to be a new gang. The Christian brothers have a host of friends near Caston and were harbored there after they escaped from Oklahoma. It was near there that they had the fight with the officers in which one of the gang, John Fessenden, was killed.

Supt. Simpson, of the Wells-Fargo Express Company, received by wire Monday morning the details

The train had stopped at Caston tank for water. The spot is a lonely one. There isn't a residence in sight and a heavy forest of live oaks stretches away in all directions for miles. An unvaried pall of cloud muffled the expanse of sky from zenith to horizon, and not a star was visible. Almost before the engine came to a full stop it was boarded by two men wearing masks of bandana handkerchiefs and flourishing big revolvers. The engineer and fireman knew what was meant and realized that resistance meant death.

Meanwhile the others of the gang were going through the express messenger coach, firing their pistols to the floor and terrorizing the passengers by their presence.

A fifth man stood in the shadow of the tank and gave directions to the others. The engineer and fireman at the points of revolvers were forced by their captors to uncouple the combination mail and passenger coach and the baggage car from the main train, and with the five bandits in the cab to run the engine and two cars to a point two miles above the tank.

Before leaving the main train they made the conductor send a flagman back to prevent a collision. They also forced the conductor to accompany them. Arriving at rendezvous, they demanded of Wells-Fargo Express Messenger Andrew of this city open the safe. When informed by him that it had a time lock, and he couldn't therefore open the safe, they threatened to blow it up with sticks of dynamite which they carried.

The conductor told them that they might blow the whole train to smithereens without damaging the safe, and this induced them to turn their attention from the express to the mail car. They rifled the mail pouches, but got very little money.

Supt. Simpson, who has been mainly instrumental in having the old Cook and other gangs of Indian Territory train robbers captured or killed off during the past year, thinks this band is an entirely new one, and is inclined to believe that it was led by some railroad man, because of the accurate knowledge displayed in the handling of the train.

REV. W. J. LEE'S TRIAL.

It Will Come Up for Final Hearing Monday, Oct. 21.

Rev. William J. Lee, the missing Presbyterian minister, was called for trial before the St. Louis Presbytery Monday morning on charges growing out of his conduct toward Miss Richie of Benton. The clerk announced that the accused did not answer the citation sent to his Benton home, his last known place of abode. The discipline of the church was quoted to show that a second citation must be sent to Lee's last home before he can be tried. The clerk was then instructed to send the citation and the prosecuting committee was directed to summon as witnesses Rev. W. J. Gauss, Rev. J. W. Allen, Rev. S. J. Niccolls and the wife and daughter of the accused. Whether he appears or not, Mr. Lee will be tried Monday, Oct. 21, at 10 a. m.

The case of Rev. W. K. Tully was called and the investigating committee reported progress. Mr. Tully is a member of the St. Louis Presbytery and he became a chaplain at Fort Leavenworth about six years ago. The Presbytery is looking into the circumstances of his loss of his army position.

Rev. Henry Gardner of Kokomo, Ind., reported that he had accepted the call to become pastor of Lee Avenue Presbyterian Church.

HAD HER HUSBAND ENJOINED.

Alonzo W. Powell Cannot Remove His Children From St. Louis.

Florence M. Powell applied Monday in the Circuit Court for an order to restrain her husband, Alonzo W. Powell, from removing their three minor children, Walter, Mabel and Jessie, from the city. Powell sued for a divorce last April, alleging that his wife abused and mistreated him; also, that she threatened to poison him and that he was afraid to sleep for fear that she would carry out her threats. At that time Powell accused her of abducting the three children now in question from his home, 4422 Eastern avenue. Since then he has recovered them.

Judge Withrow issued the order, returnable Oct. 21.

THE BIG FAIR IS NOW OPEN.

Grandest Exhibit That Has Ever Been Held in St. Louis.

MANY STRIKING FEATURES.

Although the Weather Was Not What It Should Be the Big Show Opened Auspiciously.

The sun was a little slow about smiling on the opening day of the Thirty-fifth Annual St. Louis Fair, but when he came out he made up for his tardiness, and a brighter, more cheering day could not have been made to order. At 10 o'clock the grounds were a Babel. The sharp, ringing cry of childish voices mingled with the din of hammers from unfinished exhibits, the blare of brass bands and the ringing of gongs and the hoarse nasal twang of fakirs' voices. The scene was bright and inspiring—thoroughly characteristic—and so full of animation that dullness was a dead cock in the pit. The St. Louis Fair of 1895 was a success from the start.

There are a great many things that go to make up the attractiveness of the big exhibit. Some are not apparent to the uninitiated. But the keynote is that every taste is appealed to and every exhibit includes the best and latest in its line. To the uninformed or disinterested onlooker it is the manner and not the matter of exhibition that attracts. In this the present Fair is perhaps far ahead of its predecessors, for more money has been spent and more picturesque and attractive displays are to be found on the grounds than ever before.

There is a refreshing newness about the grounds. All the old buildings have been repaired and repainted and all around them new buildings have sprung up. Beside these are thousands of yards of canvas, a new feature for the local fair, but one which brings it more in touch with the characteristic county exhibitions. The grounds have been cleaned up and divided into avenues and driveways, and a multitude of signs nailed to the trees direct the sightseers to the various points of interest.

In accordance with a time-honored precedent the opening day was given up to the school children of the city. Public and private schools throughout the city were closed and from 9 o'clock until noon and after there was a stream of youngsters pouring through the four entrances to the grounds. By noon there were no less than 75,000 children in the grounds, at a conservative estimate. They made things lively from the start. Most of the exhibitors in the mechanical or textile department saved themselves from bankruptcy and possibly from being mobbed by wisely postponing the distribution of picture cards until tomorrow. The youngsters didn't like the arrangement, neither did they agree as to the wisdom of the baking powder and ranges people in deferring the preparation and distribution of biscuits. However, the disappointment was soon forgotten in the terrible fascination that seized hold of them when they got into the Midway where there were real live snake charmers, and cowboys, and Oriental jugglers and sea-cows and all other strange things that inhabit the sky and sea and far off lands that are talked about in story books.

Most of these things could be witnessed for the exceedingly small sum of 5 cents. To attract the crowds from the neighboring exhibits, the sideshow proprietors had something wonderful—but not quite so much so as the great attraction—to show on the outside. The crowd of youngsters surged from one booth to another, heard the wonderful talks of the fakirs, saw the pictures, occasionally got a glimpse of the freaks, and, even if they didn't spend a nickel at every booth, they had a lot of fun. If the sideshow people can keep as big a crowd around their tents to listen to their cries of invitation for the rest of the week as they did today they will reap a rich harvest. The sideshows, and they are legion, stretch from the main entrance on Grand avenue back to the House of Public Comfort. The visitors can certainly not complain of a lack of variety.

The opening morning of a big fair in which are a thousand exhibits run by an army of attaches means trouble with a capital T for the man in charge of it all. There was evidence of this in Secretary Gwynn's office. From daybreak there was a constant stream of people who wanted all sorts of favors, explanations and advice. Men came in to be directed to exhibits where they had been employed, and altogether the secretary and his assistants were harrassed until the retention of patience was a sublime virtue. President Maffitt was not as well known to the exhibitors, and though he was in the thick of the crowd at all times he preserved his peace by keeping his official position a dark secret.

One of the greatest displays on the grounds is located in the big field in the center of the race track. The beautiful rolling campus is thickly dotted with every conceivable form of farming implements, and though the entries are double what they have been in previous years there is plenty room for the machinery to be moved about and show its efficacy in actual operation. The latest improvements in binding, reaping, threshing and mowing machinery are on exhibition, and a thorough inspection of the display will be a liberal education to an agriculturist. The Fair Association, to encourage the display of new inventions, are offering a diploma and honorable mention to any new agricultural implement or machine invented in 1895, if it be thought worthy by the awarding committee.

The live stock display so far surpasses the exhibitions of previous years that an entirely new standard of excellence has been set. For a week past the association has been busy putting up new pens and stalls to accommodate the entries that have poured in. Besides the long list of prizes offered by the association, there are special prizes offered by the Aberdeen-Angus Association, the American Oxford Dawn Sheep Record Association and the American Berkshire Association. All of these have brought in splendid lists of entries in the fancy classes of live stock in the fancy breeds fostered by the organizations.

Every big manufacturing company in the West is represented in the agricultural department. The awards, which are awaited with much interest, will not be made until later in the week. The exhibits of local establishments is the feature of this department.

In the fruit, vegetable and grain hall, the judges will commence making awards Tuesday. The exhibits in this department have never been excelled heretofore.

Awards will also be made in the poultry department Tuesday. Two car loads of additional exhibits for this department were to have arrived from Michigan this morning, but information has just been received that they were delayed on the road.

The judges will also commence business in the cattle, swine and sheep department to-morrow. There is a great variety of exhibits here.

The same may be said of the vehicle department, additions to which were rolling in all day.

By 10:30 o'clock, when the awards began in the arena, the place was almost filled with children. There seemed to be thousands upon thousands of them crowded into the tiers of seats and yet the great stretches of ground between the big buildings and the big buildings themselves were literally alive with them. The sunshine had made them glad and such a babel and a din as kept bursting continually from their little throats that thoughts of grown persons went wool gathering in the mad riot of youthful exuberance. And as the performances in the arena went on the youngsters kept on pouring in.

The first work done in the arena was the awarding of premiums in the mule classes, and while the drivers urged their stubborn prides around the arena several specialty performers did their acts, amid the wild excitement and enthusiasm of the assembled thousands.

Clad in tights with a blue silk jacket, William Heffler, the trick bicyclist, did everything imaginable on big wheels, little wheels, one wheel and all sorts of shapes, combinations and sizes of wheels. Hero Androda did his great wire-walking act from the roof of the amphitheater to that of the band pavilion high above the sleek, fat, well-fed mules who kicked and cavorted below. On an iron frame suspended high in the air Andre and Golden, a trapeze team, performed their acrobatic feats and closed their part of the entertainment by a daring plunge from the left of the framework to a tank of water below. Everyone shouted and cheered and applauded, but the judges kept on with their work.

SCENES AT THE ST. LOUIS FAIR.

LIKE AN EXTINCT VOLCANO.

An Old Relic of a Horse Broke Loose Unexpectedly.

An old horse is like an extinct volcano. You never know when it is going to break loose again. An antiquated relic that seemed to have lost all spirit since the general introduction of bicycles and electricity demonstrated this at 8:15 a. m. by plunging into the walled archway that extends along the Exposition building on the Fourteenth street side. For an hour and a half he remained there, all schemes for liberating him proving ineffectual. Then he came out of his own accord.

The animal's plunge into space was entirely unexpected to himself, his driver and everyone else. He belongs to the Campbell Iron Works Co., Second and Lucas avenue. Shortly after 8 o'clock William Schulze of 2911 Market street, a driver for the company, was urging the horse along at Seventeenth and Locust streets. The animal was attached to a borrowed wagon, to which in turn was fastened a vehicle from which the shafts had been broken. The horse was so old and rheumatic that Schulze, in hitching him up, had been careless about tightening the breching straps. As the horse came over the hill at Seventeenth street the wagon ran down upon him and the dashboard caught his flank. Then he broke loose.

Sarah Caught a Tartar.

According to her petition for divorce filed Monday morning Sarah A. Moore must have caught a Tartar when she married Harry Moore. Their wedded life was a brief one, lasting only from Aug. 17, last to Oct. 2, but in that time they crowded many trying experiences. She alleges that Harry struck and beat her and threatened her life with deadly weapons. Before they had been married a month, she claims that he forced her to seek refuge with the neighbors, and during her enforced absence from her home he introduced other women there. On account of which she wants a divorce as soon as the law can grind it out.

Joseph Greenspon applied in the Circuit Court Monday for an injunction to restrain the Southwestern Iron and Metal Co. from prosecuting a damage suit against him before Justice Cline, and now pending. Greenspon desired to have the case taken to the Circuit Court without trial before a Justice of the Peace. Judge Klein refused the application.

German Journalistic Enterprise.

Sunday's 40-page issue of the "Westliche-Post" was a record breaker. Ads, news and high-class reading matter crowded each other, despite the size of the paper. It was the largest German daily ever published in the world, and every letter of it was set up in the Westliche-Post building. Not a line came from a "patent insides" house.

MYSTERIOUS SUICIDE.

Unknown Young Woman Believed to Have Drowned Herself in a Pond.

The mystery of the deserted quarry pond, between St. Louis and Alsace avenues and a block east of King's highway, is apparently no nearer solution than on Sunday. Early Sunday morning William McManus, 4626 St. Louis avenue, while passing the quarry, noticed a woman's sailor hat suspended on a tree overhanging the pond. He notified the police and a careful search was made of the vicinity, without further discovery. The matter created some talk in the neighborhood, which, when it reached the ears of Mrs. Rose O'Hara, 4626 Loraine avenue, caused her to remember seeing a young woman walking about the pond late Saturday afternoon. On second thoughts Mrs. O'Hara considered the woman's actions very peculiar.

Putting these two circumstances together the police suspect a suicide. The pond is a lonely spot, well calculated to creat suicidal thoughts in a mind depressed. It is forty feet deep and lies at the bottom of a deep quarry. The place is almost inaccessible. There was some talk of dragging the pond, but this is considered impracticable. If further developments make it necessary it will be pumped out, but this is so great a task that it will not be undertaken unless some one answering the description is reported as missing.

Mrs. O'Hara describes the woman she saw as wearing a dark skirt and a striped shirt waist. The hat found is a sailor straw, size 6¾, Atlanta make.

TO SUCCEED REV. DR. BRANK

Rev. Edward Mack, Assistant Pastor, Promoted by the Congregation.

A meeting of the congregation of the Central Presbyterian Church was held immediately after service yesterday to consider the resignation of Rev. Edward Mack, who has for two years past held the position of associate pastor. The death of Dr. Brank, in August, made Mr. Mack pastor of the church, but having been called specifically as assistant to Dr. Brank, Mr. Mack tendered his resignation in order that the church might be free to call as pastor any one who might be preferred. The meeting unanimously declined to accept Mr. Mack's resignation and called him as pastor to succeed Dr. Brank.

BEATEN TO DEATH.

The Autopsy Shows No Sign of a Bullet Wound.

Preceding the inquest Monday over the remains of Louis Scholle, murdered at 2418 North Thirteenth street early Sunday morning, a post-mortem examination of the body was made. It revealed that Scholle had not been shot, but had been brutally beaten to death. The testimony at the inquest was in line with this and the result was that not only John Mielzarek, who was arrested Sunday for the murder, but Charles Rittenberger, his brother-in-law, who was with him when the crime was committed, were both held.

Rittenberger, from the evidence at the inquest, was the more guilty of the two. The murder was committed in revenge.

From early Sunday morning the police searched for Charles Stansch and August Horstmeyer, room-mates of the murdered man. They were found in time to testify at the inquest. Their testimony contradicted the claim of Mielzarek that he had acted in self-defense. Stansch swore that he and Horstmeyer went to sleep Saturday night in the bed, Scholle occupying a pallet on the floor. About 12:30 a. m. Sunday the witness was awakened by the noise of a scuffle in the next room, used as a kitchen. The next moment Scholle staggered into the room where witness lay, with Rittenberger and Mielzarek at his heels, and the former pounding Scholle on the head. The witness could not discern whether Rittenberger had any weapon in his hand or not.

Scholle seemed unable to make any resistance, but kept crying out, "I'll take water." The witness started to Scholle's rescue, but was stopped by Mielzarek before he was out of bed, Mielzarek placing his revolver at his head and commanding him to lie still. The assault upon Scholle continued and in a few minutes the witness heard a shot fired. About that time Scholle fell to the floor.

It was also stated by Stansch on the stand that he heard Mielzarek ejaculate before Scholle staggered into the room: "Now I've got you!"

Horstmeyer testified that he recognized the two intruders by their voices, but immediately drew the bed clothes over his head for fear they would attack him. To this action he attributed his escape with his life, as he had been told Mielzarek and Rittenberger were after him.

In his own defense, Mielzarek stated that he fired into the air with no intention of wounding anyone, and that he took no part in the assault upon Scholle. Afterward he went to his home, 2119 Palm street, where he re-loaded his revolver, and was arrested directly afterwards. Rittenberger swore that Scholle assaulted him and that he acted in self-defense in beating him.

From Monday's developments it appears that Rittenberger was after Scholle and Mielzarek after Horstmeyer. Scholle had been to Rittenberger's house the afternoon previous, and had abused Mrs. Rittenberger, afterward assaulting Rittenberger. Mielzarek had been told that his sister, to whom Horstmeyer was engaged to be married, had been accompanying him to his room.

The autopsy having established the cause of Scholle's death as hemorrhage of the brain, caused by blows, the verdict of the coroner's jury was in accordance with it. The victim's face had been beaten out of human shape.

GORED BY A BUCK ELK.

Henry Nelson's Horrible Death in the Forest Park Zoo.

Henry Nelson, animal keeper at Forest Park, was gored and trampled to death by the buck elk yesterday afternoon. The animal was tossing an elk calf, when Nelson rushed in to save the small beast. He knew he was endangering his own life because he had been attacked before. This buck is dangerous at all times. Before ex-Park Commissioner Fechter acquired him, three years ago, he had killed a man at Lincoln Park, Chicago. He is now especially furious, as he has just shed the velvet of his horns, at which season buck elks are always more than ordinarily fierce.

Early yesterday afternoon the buck began to vent his ill-temper on his two companions, two does and a calf. For a time they were quick enough to evade him. Finally he cornered the calf and tossed it in the air. He had it on his antlers for a second toss when Nelson rushed in armed with a pitchfork. The big elk left the attack on the calf and turned on the newcomer. Before Nelson had time to use his weapon the infuriated brute pinned him to the fence with his antlers, one entering his left breast, passing through his body.

FORBES' WRIT ACCEPTED.

Judge Murphy Releases the Man Arrested as a Confidencer.

Judge Murphy Monday released John Forbes, for whom, on the application of Attorney Charles Noland, he issued a writ of habeas corpus Saturday. Forbes was arrested Saturday morning at Union Station by Detective King as a confidence man here for Fair week business.

Mr. Noland held that Forbes was being unlawfully detained by the police because no charge was put against him, and Judge Murphy had the same opinion.

Forbes was arraigned in the Police Court Monday, charged with gambling, and his case was continued until Oct. 21.

AT THE THEATERS.

Production of Five Fair Week Plays at the Local Theaters.

Every theater in St. Louis displayed the standing-room sign Sunday night. Even for the Sunday of Fair week the attendance was remarkable, many persons who came down town to go to the theater being obliged to go home because seats could not be obtained.

The attraction which served as a magnet at the Grand was Hoyt's "A Milk White Flag." With a few exceptions the piece is the same as when seen here last year, but there have been some changes in the cast and some additional ideas interpolated into the last act, which add to the absurdity of the situation.

"The Old Homestead" did the same thing Sunday night that it has always done—packed the Olympic to the doors. The Sunday night record of the house was broken. There seems to be no end to the charm of this production. Its quaint humor and homely wit, its sweet touches of pathos, and more than all its fidelity to New England country life has an attraction that appears irresistible.

The company presenting the play is a capable one. George H. Wilson as Uncle Josh being a clever successor to the creator of the role, Denman Thompson. The quartette which accompanies the production sings well and was heartily encored.

The Hagan gave two performances of "The Black Crook" Sunday and turned away people at both.

"Shenandoah" at Havlin's did all the business it could Sunday. The only limitation was the size of the house.

Sam T. Jack's "Adamless Eden" burlesque company opened to big houses at the Standard. The company consists mostly of women and presents a number of specialties and a spicy burlesque.

PRETTY

AND ATTRACTIVE WOMEN.

Their Good Looks Not a Secret.

[SPECIAL TO OUR LADY READERS.]

No matter to what country she belongs, or whether she be black or white, as a woman she desires to look well.

Women know the influence of beauty on men; men rarely admire a beautiful invalid, but they do admire a woman in whom is blended good features and perfect health.

There is no secret about a woman's beauty; it all lies in the care she devotes to herself, to removing from her system all poisonous impurities, and keeping at bay those fearful female diseases.

The flashing eye, elastic step, and brilliant complexion are never companions of a womb trouble; only the distressed expression and aches, pains, blues, faintness, dizziness, bearing-down feeling, etc., keep it company.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound removes female troubles promptly, and cleanses, invigorates, and consequently beautifies, the form of woman. Women, the world over, pay homage to it, and praise its discoverer. Your druggist sells more of it than all other female medicines.

WHITES KILLED BY INDIANS.

Three Men Murdered by Bannocks in Jackson's Hole.

AMBUSHED BY THE REDS.

The Shooting Done to Avenge the Killing of a Brave and a Pappoose Last July.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 7.—A special to the Republican from Pocatello, Idaho, gives the following account of the killing of settlers at Jackson's Hole by Indians:

A courier and scout for the United States troops, named J. W. Wilson, reached Idaho Falls, about ninety miles north of this place, last evening, bringing news of the killing of Capt. Smith and two comrades by Indians in the lower part of Jackson's Hole on Thursday morning.

The Indians had sworn vengeance against Smith, as it was he, they believed, who killed one of their tribe and was the cause indirectly of the death of a pappoose last July. Smith was wounded himself in this fight, but recovered. Wilson states that Capt. Smith and his two companions were prospecting on the south fork of Snake river, at the south end of Jackson's Hole, and were ambushed, and he and his two companions were shot dead and their bodies left on the river bar. Wilson and Constable Manning were scouting in this locality at the time and both saw the dead bodies of the murdered men. Wilson rode at once to Capt. Collis' command at Swan Valley and reported the facts, leaving Manning at Camp Granite to return to Jackson's Hole with the troops, who left immediately for the scene of the killing. Wilson then rode to Idaho Falls with dispatches.

B. Adams, a rancher, living three miles from the scene of the killing and now visiting at Idaho Falls, put Wilson through a searching examination in regard to the killing of Smith and his companions, and says there can be no doubt whatever as to the reliability of Wilson's statement. He says further that the killing of Smith was no surprise to him, as the Indians openly avowed they would have his scalp. He believes, however, that this will virtually settle the difficulty so far as the Indians are concerned. Having avenged the death of their braves they will now return to the reservation.

Wilson says there are about sixty Indians in Jackson's Hole and they are Bannocks from the Fort Hall Reservation.

Capt. Collis, with his command, who started for the Hole, will drive out all the Indians found there, but it is almost certain that none will be encountered, as they will anticipate the arrival of troops and head by a circuitous route for the reservation.

Lieut. Ladd of the Ninth Cavalry and Lieut. Penn of the First Infantry, now stationed at Montpelier, Idaho, were much alarmed at the report of the killing. From reports received by them from their troops camped in Star Valley, it was believed no further trouble would ensue, and the report states that there were no Indians in Jackson's Hole with the exception of a small band under military escort going to another camp in Wyoming to recover a child that was lost last winter. The name of Smith's comrades could not be learned.

RIOT AMONG BOATMEN.

One Killed and Another Fatally Wounded at Tonawanda, N. Y.

TONAWANDA, N. Y., Oct. 7.—One man was killed and another fatally wounded here this morning in a riot among boatmen over the question of loading a boat at Scribner's dock. About 150 men were involved in the riot and several pistol shots were fired. Capt. Phillips, owner of the boats John Graft and May, was shot in the head as he stood upon his boat and died soon afterward. Phillips' son was struck in the head with a club and knocked insensible. It is believed his skull is fractured and his death is feared.

Capt. Phillips brought his boat from Buffalo a few days ago and tried to load out of his turn. The boatmen objected and gathered at the dock to prevent him. A quarrel arose, and soon shooting began. The Tonawanda boatmen say that Phillips began it. However that may be, Phillips was the first to fall. His son then cut the lines and the boats drifted down-stream out of the range of the pistols. While cutting the lines young Phillips was assaulted and hurt. The shooting brought the police to the docks, but the affray was over and the men had disappeared.

ON A $10,000 WAGER.

Levi Junes Has Almost Reached the End of His Walk.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—Levi Junes, who looks like a tramp, came to town last night. He says he started from Denver, Colo., last March to walk to New York on a $10,000 wager. From New York he may go by train, if he so chooses, to Washington, the terms of the wager providing that he must reach the Capital by the time Congress convenes. His long walk, without money or a roof to shelter him, has reduced his weight from 300 to 180 pounds.

MEXICO'S PALACE.

Americans Secure the Contract for Lighting by Electricity.

CITY OF MEXICO, Oct. 7.—An American firm of this city has secured the contract for lighting the National Palace by electricity. The Government until recently has opposed putting in electricity, fearing danger from fire. Concession has been granted for irrigating canal, commencing on the left bank of Sabinas River, in the State of Coahuila, the concessionaire binding himself to conform to any regulations that may be adopted as a result of the proposed International Irrigation Convention between the United States and Mexico.

Bad washouts on the Mexican Central Railroad, near Jiminez, have detained mails and passengers from the far West and Pacific Coast of the United States. Among those detained are Secretary of United States Legation Butler and President Robinson of the Central railway. The storm in the north interfered with the Mexican National railway telegraph lines last night.

Construction material for the westward extension of the Mexican Central railway from Gaudalajara has been sent to that city and material will soon arrive from New Mexico.

Among the delegates to the Congress of Americanists next month are Frederico Guillermo Voflmer, Consul-General of Venesuela in Hamburg, Dr. Walter J. Hoffman of Washington, F. W. Putnam of Cambridge, Mass., Henry De Lausure, Geneva M. Camlefot, President of the Geographical Society of France; A. De Montgolfier of Loire, France; Clemens Muller of Dresden, Raoul De La Grasserie of Rierms, His Excellency Clythe De Magalaes, representing the United States of Brazil; His Excellency Emilie De Leon, representing Guatemala, and His Excellency Francisco De La Fuento Ruiz, representing the Dominion Republic.

Some excitement has been created by a rumor that Protestant missionaries had conspired to blow up a church containing the miraculous image of the Virgin at Guadaloupe with dynamite bombs or to set fire to the structure. A section of the City Fire Department is at Guadaloupe, near the church. The authorities give the rumor no credence, but it is shows how popular feeling has been excited by the threatened Protestant missionary crusade against the adoration of the Virgin about which many patriotic traditions cluster.

INSURGENT DEFEATS.

Reports of Course Come Through "Official Adviser" From Havana.

HAVANA, Oct. 7.—Official advices received here from Santiago de Cuba, says that Major Tejeda of the guerrilla forces, has had an engagement at Palma Sorinano, Province of Santiago de Cuba, with a band of insurgents commanded by Castillo. The latter are reported to have left three killed on the field and the troops also captured four Remington rifles. After the skirmish Maj. Tejeda laid an ambuscade for the insurgents, who were expected to return for the purpose of burying their dead. They did so and were surprised by the troops, who killed two more of them and captured one prisoner and seven Remington rifles. The prisoners admitted that the insurgents retired with twelve wounded.

A column of troops commanded by Gen. Valdes while scouting in the neighborhood of Palma, and Minas, Province of Santa Clara, has had skirmishes with the insurgents under the command of Zayas, Suarez and Nunez. The insurgents are said to have left five killed behind them and to have retired with many wounded. The troops lost two killed.

NOTHING CAN RESIST IT.

A New Explosive Possessed by the Cuban Junta.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Some days ago it was announced that the Cuban junta in New York was possessed of the secret of a very powerful explosive, the invention of Horatio Rubens, the Junta's legal adviser. There are two men in South Brooklyn who assert that they have been unfairly treated by the Cuban leaders in this connection. One of these men, who says he is the inventor of the new explosive, is Joseph D. Bennett, Superintendent of the Aluminum Company.

"Some years ago," he said, "I discovered the peculiar properties of two substances which when separated are absolutely harmless, but when combined form a most destructive explosive, ten times as powerful as nitro-glycerine. I kept the matter to myself until the Cuban insurrection broke out, and then I thought I saw a chance to turn my discovery to account. With a pound of my compound I could blow up the stoutest war vessel afloat to-day. It will ignite everything with which it comes in contact. The flames cannot be extinguished until the substance is entirely consumed. It leaves no residue."

Mr. Bennett says he formed a partnership lately with two men, and they sought a contract with the Cuban Junta, which agreed to buy the secret for $10,000 cash and $20,000 in Cuban bonds, and papers were drawn to that effect. First the Junta insisted in seeing experiments made, which were successful beyond anticipation. But then the Junta ceased to take interest in the invention. Now they announce that Mr. Rubens has not invented such a compound. Bennett says Rubens has simply stolen his secret, which had not been sufficiently guarded.

Cuba Sure of Freedom.

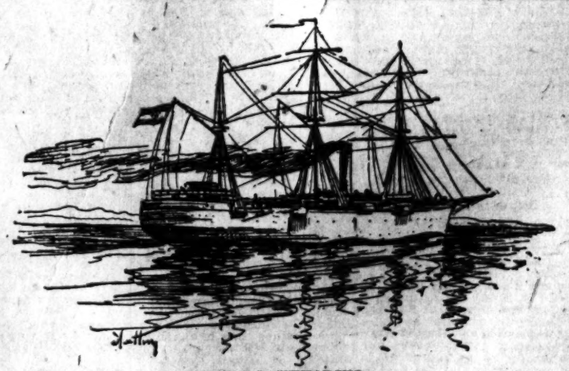

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

TAMPA, Fla., Oct. 7.—"Two things are certain," says a New Yorker on his way home from a prolonged stay in Cuba, looking after extensive interests in the interior. "One is that we are going to have trouble with Spain about complications arising from the Cuban question; the other is that Cuba will be free whether the United States recognizes her or not."

This gentleman could not allow his name to be used because his property in Cuba would be confiscated and he would be thrown into prison were he to return to the Island.

"I heard a high official in Havana say," he continued, "that if the Americans do not mind 'we will parade the Spanish troops in Central Park, New York, before we are through.' I heard it said in a well-known cafe in Havana that after the rebellion is suppressed the United States will be attended to, and it was hoped that Cleveland could be caught and hanged. It is openly declared in the cafes that if Uncle Sam recognizes Cuba then the Americans must get out of the island quick.

"By Christmas there will be 180,000 Spanish soldiers on the Island of Cuba. Why should Spain mobilise so many troops on our frontier if they are not needed?"

ARMED GUARD AT HER GRAVE.

Protecting the Remains of Mrs. Rawak From Body-Snatchers.

GHOULS IN THE CEMETERY.

Mrs. Rawak Was Partly Petrified by Disease and It Is Thought Ghouls Wanted to Sell Her Body.

Armed guards have been employed to watch over the grave of the late Mrs. Rawak, in the old Mount Olive Cemetery, located eight miles out on the Olive street road. A peculiar malady which resulted in the petrifaction of her right side and arm, in life, caused her death, and Sunday, two weeks ago, she was laid to rest in the exclusive Jewish graveyard.

Medical men far and near became interested in her case, but death could not be averted and rather than have her suffer under the cruel surgeon's knife her husband had everything done to relieve her of pain until death ended her sufferings. This anxiety on the part of medicos, together with the report of strange midnight visitors at the cemetery, is the explanation of why that gruesome garden of tombstones has been converted into a temporary armory. It is the belief of the husband and relatives of the deceased that her body will be stolen.

Just who the midnight prowlers were is not known. They stole into the place Monday night two weeks ago. There were four suspicious looking men, accompanying a spring wagon, attached to which was a brown horse. It was past midnight and Keeper Anthony had retired within his little hut. There was nothing to hinder the four men. The aged keeper did not hear the creaking of the old gate, and why should he be out at that hour, with nothing but the queer shadows of tombstones for company?

The visitors were big, husky fellows. They tied the horse a short distance from the old gate and, carrying a lantern, walked up the main roadway and then turned into a walk, branching off into the gloom. A lantern caried by one of the men was lit and they began an investigation of the burial lots and tombstones on either side of the walk.

They were on top of a small hill and the rays from the lantern darted through the foliage of the surrounding trees like a will o' the wisp in the darkness. This strange jack-o'-lantern reflected to the very door of Keeper Anthony's hut. His only companion and helpmate, a huge Newfoundland dog, began barking. His master came out, but at the moment the shadow of the man sent the reflection elsewhere. Three or four times the barking of his dog brought him out, and the last time he was fully clothed and prepared to investigate. The howling of the dog made him nervous. He never acted that way before.

The first thought was to see if the big gate was closed. This is how Anthony made the discovery of the presence of the men. They were there for no good purpose, and he turned his steps toward the place where the light made him nervous.

The men must have heard him coming, for they began to move rapidly down the road. When Anthony reached the place where the light had been they were gone. By a circuitous route they reached their vehicle and hurried from the place.

All that night the keeper did not sleep, and the next morning word was sent to Supt. Aaron Gershon at his office, 214 South Twenty-first street. Anthony could not imagine the object of the intruders except to rthe theft of bodies, and as the intruders were in the vicinity of Mrs. Rawak's grave, the suposition is that ghouls were after her body. It was then decided to place a guard over Mrs. Rawak's grave. Owing to the retiring disposition of Mr. Rawak and the dread of notoriety that would follow ,the local authorities were not informed of the midnight prowlers in the cemetery.

The guard will be retained for a month and then a massive monument will be erected over the grave.

MOVED TO OTHER FIELDS.

Room and Board Agency Departs for Other Pastures.

Another boarding house exchange has quietly exchanged its quarters for others more remote. This time it is the "Public Service Exchange," which, for thirty days, has occupied room 217 Commercial building. H. W. Still was the moving spirit and a young man named Young seems to have been an innocent victim.

The Public Service Exchange moved from room 57 Laclede building about a month ago to the Commercial building, paying rent in advance. Attractive advertisements were inserted in the newspapers, agreeing for a consideration to furnish roomers to boarding houses. The consideration was according to circumstances, either $1 or $2 for which it was promised to advertise the rooms and to send such roomers or boarders as might apply at the office to the advertiser.

Accounts of adjoining offices say that room 217 had many visitors and all presumably, registered and paid $1 or $2.

Thursday morning Stelle quit St. Louis, leaving the furniture and stationery for Young to dispose of. The latter moved it out Thursday night. Friday, Saturday and Monday there were numbers of persons trying to find Stelle but the only information to be had was on a card pinned to the door, reading: "Public Service Exchange, H. W. Stelle, 1618 Thirteenth street, N. W., Washington, D. C."

A Post-Dispatch reporter was told by Mrs. Baldwin of 4349 Laclede avenue that she had given Stelle $1 about three weeks ago for which he agreed to advertise her rooms for ten days in a morning paper and also to send her roomers from such applicants as came to the office. Neither promise had been kept.

HARRISON'S HARD WORDS.

The Author of "Runnymede" Scores New York Play-Goers.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 7.—"Legs and a variety show; that is all the casual New Yorker cares for at a theater," said William Greer Harrison. The author of "Runnymede," the play which was so unmercifully scored by the New York critics, has returned home and explains why his play was a failure.

"The Bohemian Club of San Francisco," he said, "represents more refinement, more intelligence and more culture than can be found in the whole city of New York, so far as it is possible for a visitor to see it. Judging from such opportunities as I had of seeing New York men, and I saw them in the best of their clubs, they do not know what is really meant by culture. Noveity and sensation, yes, they understand. I say this, not from any hard feeling toward New York, for the cause of their lack of knowledge is readily seen. It arises from their slavish life. They are slaves to their business, and when they go to the theater they want to see something that will make them laugh.

"The most intelligent and refined man I met in New York was Ned Townsend, and next him Gibson, the art critic.

"The sole and only conception of life in the New Yorker is to turn one dollar into two, and they have no time for the refining influence one would naturally expect to find.

"'Runnymede' was unfortunate," he said. "Mr. Ward himself was a dead weight on the play because he was expected by his audience to be Frederick Warde as he is in 'Virginius' or 'The Lion's Mouth.' They were waiting for his grand explosion and it never came, for there is no grand explosion in 'Runnymede'—it is not that kind of a play.

"The critics—well, they misunderstood the play and its purpose and did not try to understand it. To succeed in New York one must go to New York and become a New Yorker. Actors who had not learned their lines made them up as they went along and innumerable lines were pitchforked into the play that never belonged there. It was these interpolated lines that were attacked by the critics. They never attacked the leading merit of the play. 'Runnymede' is as far ahead of the trash which New Yorkers take to as 'As You Like It' is, and the critics ought to have examined into the good qualities of the play rather than scored me for the interpolated phrases."

Iron and Steel Trade Booming.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—United States Consul Warner, at Cologne, reports to the State Department that the iron and steel trade is manifesting extraordinary activity in Germany partly owing to the combinations to regulate sales. Some of the old iron works have already contracted for the sale of their entire output to the end of 1895 at high prices. Wire has also advanced and America has again begun to give orders in the Ziegerland for spiegeleisen. This activity is reflected in other industries and the consul believes the improvement is permanent, as Germany is receiving many orders from American importers.

OLD GOLDMAN'S MURDERER.

Ground for Believing His Crime Was Long-Sought Revenge.

TWO CONNECTING LETTERS.

They May Have Been Written by the Murderer and Their Surrounding Circumstances Indicate They Were.

There is good ground for believing that the murderer of old Ignatz Goldman is either in New York or has fled the country. The following letter was received by the Post-Dispatch Friday:

"I mashed old Goldman's hed in for he ruin my home in old countri. I follow him ten year. Now I go bak. I keep this account good. Do you think.

"ACCOUNTANT."

The epistle was printed in a trembling hand on cheap paper and had been mailed Thursday evening at 9 o'clock somewhere in St. Louis. No particular attention was paid to it at the time and it was merely printed for what it was worth.

Monday morning's mail from New York brought this letter:

"NEW YORK, Oct. 5.

"I kep account. Now I sale away.

"ACCOUNTANT."

The letters were printed by the same person and were addressed in exactly the same manner. The address read "Editor Post-Dispatch, St. Louis, Mo." Editor was misspelled in both instances and on the envelope from New York "U. S. A." was added in the lower left hand corner. It was postmarked "New York, Oct. 5, 1:30 p. m." A comparison of the letters and the envelopes in which they came leaves no room for doubt that they were written by the same person.

When the first one was received it was supposed to be merely the freak of a crank, but the arrival of the second from New York lends color to the belief that the writer slew Goldman or was implicated in the murder.

The language of both epistles is evidently that of a foreigner. This tallies with the description of the murderer furnished to the police by W. H. Osmer, Secretary of the Council. Osmer and Miss Annie Coldewe, a Western Union telegraph operator, were in the restaurant Tuesday night about the time of the murder and saw a suspicious looking man in the place at that time. Osmer described the man as being of medium height, black hair and mustache and swarthy complexion. He wore a dark suit and black slouch hat.

The positive statement that the murderer has a swarthy complexion would lead to the belief that he is a foreigner and gives credence to the acknowledgments of the writer of the letters quoted above that he is the murderer. The letters may serve as a clew that will yet lead to the capture of the murderer.

Every theory that has been followed by the police has come to naught, and at noon to-day the mystery was no nearer a solution than it was Tuesday night when the body was found. The two girls, Maude Dyer and Lydia Murphy, were located at Moberly Sunday and brought back by Detective Gocking. They told a straight story and, after careful investigation, it was found that they would have to be released and sent back home.

Kendrick, the former lover of Maude, was released Sunday, as there was no evidence against him, and he had served his purpose by giving the name of John Myers of Moberly, who was supposed to have quarreled with Goldman about the girls. Telegrams were sent to the authorities at Moberly, and Myers was found at his home. He is able to prove an alibi, having been at work in a livery stable at Moberly on the day of the murder.

The facts which led the police to suspect Myers were that he came here on Sunday, Aug. 12, to see Maude Dwyer, with whom he is in love, but who has never reciprocated his affection. He endeavored to get Maude and Lydia to return with him to Moberly, but they refused, and two policemen who were called in refused to interfere. The girls had come to St. Louis the Monday evening before in company with Kendrick and John Sherin, both of Moberly, and were staying at 2308 Olive street. They frequently went to Goldman's. A week later they went to Mrs. La Roge's boarding-house, 2809 Chestnut street. Maude left the city for her home Tuesday evening about an hour before the murder, and Lydia followed Friday. Transportation was secured for them by Matron Frazier at the Union Station. They wanted to go before, but had no money.

The fact that Myers was a jealous lover and had been in St. Louis; that Maude left the city the night of the murder, and that Lydia followed three nights after the murder, formed a chain of circumstantial evidence that could not be ignored, particularly after it was learned that the girls were in the habit of going to Goldman's restaurant and Goldman was not above the suspicion of being intimate with them.

Both of the girls are wild and reckless. Lydia is 22 and Maude is 18. The latter is fully developed and quite pretty. Her father is James Dyer, a carpenter, living on Culp street, Moberly. She says that Kendrick ruined her and brought her to St. Louis under promise of marriage. She wrote her mother that she was married, but Kendrick did not fulfil his promise.

RACE FOR NOTORIETY.

Four Police Court Cases Come From the Sportsman's Park Track.

The new Sportsman's Park track made an inauspicious race for undesirable notoriety in Judge Stevenson's court Monday morning. Three cases of disturbing the peace and one for making a target out of a "col'd gemman" who works around the stables were tried.

The first case called was that of David Moore, who got into a fight with Arthur Jackson, another stable boy, Saturday night. He thought he ought to kill Jackson on general principles, but finally decided to give him another lease of life, attaching as a restricting clause that he would kill him if he winked his eye. As Jackson had risen rather early in the morning he was still under the soporific influence and doubly breached Moore's edict by winking both eyes. Moore then tried to prove what he had previously said by blazing away twice at Jackson. Neither shot took effect. Monday morning Judge Stevenson fined Moore $50 for his breach of the peace and $15 for his exhibition of poor marksmanship. Jackson was discharged.

Another case was that of George W. Kennedy, who claims to be a horse owner. Saturday night Kennedy got drunk and gave vent to such an unearthly howling that the track followers thought Chris Von der Ahe was registering one of his famous protests in his sleep.

Kennedy wasn't satisfied with keeping everybody, including the horses, awake, and got into a fight with one of his comrades.

He was fined $10.

THE LEATHER TRADE.

American Manufacturers Pushing Their Business in Europe.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—The German leather makers have been obliged to turn to America to learn the latest developments in their trade in order to keep pace in the competition for business, and they are making strenuous efforts to discover the process of manufacture used in this country.

United States Consul Merritt shows this fact in a report to the State Department based on publications in the German trade papers. The Germans learned at the Chicago Exposition, where the best and cheapest leather in the world could be had. German alum tanned leather has had its day, and the German shoemakers who three years ago would not look at American glazed kid are now importing it direct, and are trying to discover the secrets of its production by sending experts to America and by trying to induce American workmen to come to Germany. Agencies for American leather are found in every large European city, but the business is largely in English hands. The American trade is helped by the high prices of German hides, which handicaps the tanners and limits their output, and the indications point to a scarcity of domestic tanned hide next winter.

EVADING THE EXCISE LAW.

Tricks Resorted to to Get Drinks on Sunday in New York.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Men who were not club members yesterday and who could not afford to patronize the high-priced hotels and restaurants where they had to pay for a "sandwich meal" in order to get a drink, had to resort to all the tricks and devices which their experience under the Roosevelt regime has taught them in order to get intoxicants. There were saloons in every police precinct in town except those down-town precincts where there is no resident population, where sentinels were ready to admit any man whom they knew to back rooms and to upstairs rooms where liquor was being sold. During the day there were twenty-eight arrests of excise violators, as against thirty-two for last Sunday.

MURDERED AND ROBBED.

Theory About an Unknown Man Found Near Bement.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

BEMENT, Ill., Oct. 7.—An unknown man was found two miles east of town yesterday morning about 9 o'clock in an unconscious condition. He never regained consciousness, and died this morning at 2 o'clock. He had scalp wounds and his pockets were turned inside out. It is supposed that he was knocked senseless and robbed. There was nothing found on him by which he could be identified. He was about 40 years of age and his laundry was marked "L. C."

Mrs. Edward P. Hoerner Commits Suicide During the Night.

Edward P. Hoerner of 4274A Ashland avenue awoke at 5 a. m. Sunday to find his wife hanging from a small swing in a door way leading into another room. She was dead. Hoerner, who is a carpenter, states that his wife awoke him at 12:30 with a request that he look after the baby. It was quiet and Hoerner went to sleep again.

A chair near the swing indicated that Mrs. Hoerner jumped from it after adjusting the rope. Dr. Pardue, 5052 Easten avenue, found that she had been dead some time. Since the birth of her infant, eight months ago, she had been afflicted with periodical attacks of dementia.

Clipped His Pocket Out.

George Holland, while on his way to his room at 1008 North Third street, was halted by a gang and ordered to drink beer. He refused to touch the proffered can and went his way. At his room he discovered that his pocket had been cut out and all his money taken. The blade made a deep gash in his hip without his knowing it.

RECALL MINISTER TERRELL.

Whether or not Secretary Olney intends to inaugurate "a vigorous foreign policy," he should without delay recall Minister Terrell from Constantinople. The dispatch which Minister Terrell sent last week to the State Department about the alleged Armenian "uprising" in Constantinople is a disgrace to American diplomacy and a stigma upon the humanity of the great Republic.

This is not Minister Terrell's first offense as a Minister. He has not only proved himself utterly incompetent to conduct the delicate negotiations which representatives of Christian powers must always be prepared for at the Sublime Porte, but his sympathies and predilections in the Sultan's favor and his indifference to the appeals of the Sultan's Christian subjects had become a matter of comment in diplomatic circles before he had been in Constantinople six months.

Minister Terrell has the disadvantage of comparison with the ablest man the United States ever sent to Constantinople, namely, Hon. Oscar Straus of New York. During Mr. Straus' term of office American missionaries were assiduously looked after and American interests vigorously and effectively protected within the domains of "the unspeakable Turk." No more popular Minister ever represented the United States at the Sultan's capital. But unlike Mr. Terrell, Mr. Straus did not permit the blandishments of the Court to divert him from his chief work as Minister. He was respected by the Sultan and his ministers and he compelled respect for himself and his country.

The Post-Dispatch happens to know that before Secretary Gresham's death the State Department was desirous of having the assistance of Mr. Straus in straightening out some of the tangles at Constantinople. Secretary Olney could not do a wiser or more reassuring thing than to recall Mr. Terrell and send Mr. Straus to Constantinople, if only for a few months. Some such act is necessary to restore American prestige and influence in the East.

A WICKED NEGRO COUNSELOR.

The Rev. J. M. Townsend, the colored pastor of Quinn Chapel in Chicago, is a wicked counselor of his race.

In the pulpit yesterday Mr. Townsend read the account of the killing of Neal Smith, the Tennessee convict, who cruelly maltreated and fatally injured a young white woman, and then added:

This must stop in a Christian land. If the law is not allowed to take its course concerning our men involved in crime the torch must be applied in those cities where the outrages occur.

It is charitable to believe that this pastor, who ought to be a man of peace, does not know what he is counseling. If the congregation who applauded this wild utterance had thought for a moment what the application of the torch in revenge for the killing of a brutal criminal would mean to their race and to the progress of civilization in this country, they would have held their peace and shuddered.

Both the crime and its punishment are shocking to humane, law-abiding people. Both represent the extreme of brutal lawlessness. Both must be stopped in a Christian land.

But the way to sto[p] lawlessness is not to commit greater lawlessness and inaugurate a carnival of fire and bloodshed. The way to assure the negro the protection of the law is not to arouse the negro to deeds of violence in defense of the brutal criminals of his race.

If the Christian education of the Rev. Mr. Townsend and congregation cannot keep them from such a course of monstrous wrong and folly it has been wasted.

YESTERDAY'S SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

As shown by the affidavit published elsewhere, the circulation of the Sunday Post-Dispatch yesterday, after deducting all spoiled and left-over copies, exceeded 85,000 copies. This is the largest regular bona fide circulation ever attained by a St. Louis Sunday newspaper. It exceeds by nearly 20,000 copies the circulation of either the Sunday Globe-Democrat or the Sunday Republic.

The advertising showing is equally satisfactory. In yesterday's issue there were 117 columns of paid advertising, as compared with 80 columns in the corresponding issue of last year, a gain of 46 per cent. Yesterday's Republic contained only 107 columns of advertising. Of the announcements of our local merchants the Post-Dispatch contained 82 columns and the Republic 61 columns.

Of the people's "Want ads" the Post-Dispatch contained 22 columns and the Republic 17 columns. In this department of the people's advertising the Post-Dispatch is steadily gaining upon its esteemed contemporaries.

In the crispness, brightness and up-to-date character of its reading matter and in the beauty of its illustrations the Sunday Post-Dispatch is without a peer outside of New York City. Every succeeding issue confirms its readers in this opinion.

CONCERNING PROSPERITY.

The public has some interest in the effort of Col. Charles H. Jones to retain the editorship of the St. Louis "Post-Dispatch" and the effort of the directors of the corporation owning the paper to eliminate him. The effort of the directors to depose him is made on the ground that his advocacy of free silver coinage is injuring the business of the paper and the value of the property. It has not always been true that a Missouri newspaper injured its business by advocating free coinage, and if that be the present situation public sentiment has undergone a considerable and a very healthy change. The sentiment of the business men of St. Louis has been sound all along, but more than one St. Louis paper has been on the free silver side without impairing its prosperity. It is evident that the belief in sound money is growing.

It has not always been true that a Missouri newspaper injured its business by advocating free coinage, nor is it true now. A pretty definite view of the kind of injury that has been done to "the business of the paper and the value of the property" since the new management took charge of the Post-Dispatch on Feb. 14 may be obtained from the following resolution offered by C. H. Jones at the meeting of the Board of Directors on Sept. 21:

Whereas, The dull midsummer season is now ended and the fall and winter season has begun, which promises great prosperity, and

Whereas, The available cash balance of the Post-Dispatch, which to-day is $46,415.87, is much larger than is required for the safe conduct of the company's business; therefore,

Resolved, that a dividend of four per cent (40,000) on the capital stock of the Pulitzer Publishing Company is hereby declared, to be paid in cash on October first out of the earnings of the company since February 14, 1895.

This dividend, earned in less than eight months, including the dull summer season, breaks all records in the history of the Post-Dispatch, and this in spite of the reduction of the price of the paper to 1 cent on Jan. 1.

The business condition and prospects of the Post-Dispatch were never more flattering than now. From a local newspaper with a purely local circulation and influence it has attained a solid and vastly increased circulation widely distributed throughout the six leading States of the Mississippi Valley, while its influence upon public opinion and its work in behalf of the people of the West have evidently excited the alarm of the Eastern gold standard agitators.

If the present management is left undisturbed to carry out its plans and to work in harmony with the people of its section, the year 1896 will without doubt be the most prosperous in the paper's history.

BEEF INSPECTION REFORM.

The agitation of the beef inspection question by the Post-Dispatch and New York World has at last resulted in an effective measure to put a stop to scandals and place the beef export trade on a sound basis.

Secretary Morton has issued an order requiring that all beef offered for exportation shall be accompanied by a certificate of an inspector showing that the cattle from which it was produced were free from disease and that the meat is sound and wholesome. No shipment of meat without such a certificate will be permitted and no vessel containing unstamped meat will be given clearance papers.

This order goes into effect on Jan. 1 of next year, the delay being necessary in order to provide a sufficient corps of inspectors to accommodate the trade.

This order should have been made and enforced long ago. It simply marks the difference between dishonest and inefficient inspection which has given foreign authorities an excuse to destroy the American beef trade and honest inspection under which American beef goes abroad free from all suspicion.

There is only one thing more to do to complete the value of American beef inspection; that is to make and enforce such regulations as will protect the American consumer from the sale of rejected export beef or any other diseased meat.

Though ex-Secretary Foster has a large amount of well-earned Chinese money in his pocket and feels kindly toward China, the fact remains that Americans abroad must be protected. Great Britain has found it good policy to protect British subjects and the United States can do no better than to follow Mr. Bull in this respect.

It is well that a Christian countryman has said grace in a New York restaurant, however much he may have astonished the other patrons and the waiter girls. A thankful state of mind would not be bad for even the restaurant boarder, and it might aid his digestion, which is sometimes sorely tried by the cooking.

When President Porfirio Diaz can run for President six times in Mexico, it is easy for Grover Cleveland to see that President Cleveland ought to run three times in the United States. We are not yet, however, sufficiently Mexicanized to warrant a third term venture for any President.

The brass band as an element in trade may develop to an alarming extent. If the Pine street musical experiment is to spread we may have a band on every business block down town. There is musical talent in the city sufficient to provide every merchant with a ta-ra-ra and a boom-de-ay.

Gladstone's approval of the Gothenburg system for the liquor traffic will no doubt be taken by Mr. Tillman as an indorsement of the South Carolina dispensary scheme, though the British statesman may never have heard of the sufferings of thirsty South Carolinians.

The Illinois College men who have organized a club and bound themselves to refrain from shaving soap, razors and bay rum may receive a congratulatory letter from Senator Peffer, but they can hardly expect the applause of the barbers.

The fact that Mr. Harrison has made a large fortune since he was retired from the White House does not in the least interfere with his receptivity. Let not his party be deceived into supposing that Mr. Harrison is a statesman who is merely out for sordid dollars.

Minister Terrell's lack of gallantry in keeping Dr. Grace Kimball from administering medicines to the Armenians has astonished the women of his country. No other American would have so discriminated against the advancing sex.

In view of the terror inspired by the "new woman," it may not be so bad, after all, for young men to go into a thumping contest for the possession of a beautiful girl. A victorious pug might need all his skill in his wedded life.

The prosperity of the Post-Dispatch is well earned and ought not to vex any contemporary. Subscribers and advertisers are certainly not complaining of the most successful journal ever published in St. Louis.

It is good news that the white newspaper trust is not likely to succeed and that it will be worried from the start. Cheap newspapers are a necessity, and everything that tends to increase their price is an evil.

The "vulgar thousands" who flock to Europe from wealthy American circles will scarcely thank Gertrude Atherton for her allusion to them in her defense of the genuine American girl.

If the Cubans could be encouraged to go at the Spaniards as the participants in Chicago Republican primaries go at one another, Campos would soon be driven from the island.

The bicycle discussion of the homeopathic doctors developed more opposition to bloomers than to bicycles. It seems that even moderation in bloomers is not to be thought of.

Tillman will enter the Senate as a roaring lion, but if he keeps away from the sugar hogshead he will not be so very much worse than some other statesmen in that body.

Paderewski is returning to this country and it devolves upon the press, in the interest of infatuated femininity, to discover whether that is really a wig that he has on.

If Uncle Samuel could spare a warship to help overthrow a Hawaiian government, he can certainly send a man-of-war or two to the succor of the missionaries in China.

The Czar is speaking in the most flattering terms of the Emperor William. He may be trying to make William believe that he is reading the Emperor's poetry.

If John Bull has jollied Mr. Bayard and the Sultan has jollied Mr. Terrell, what is to be thought of the great Republic internationally?

Has Uncle Filley's typewriter slipped a cog? There are not so many anti-Walbridge paragraphs in the Republican weeklies as there were.

The woman dentist whose record is thirteen teeth in three minutes has given the opponents of the new woman something to chew on.

Mr. Whitney seems to be cultivating a receptivity that may equal Mr. Harrison's, but Mr. Whitney lives too far East.

The citizen who can feed his horse at the expense of the city will have little occasion for a bicycle.

If Keck & Co. succeed in carrying terror to the soles of the leather trust, no consumer will kick.

With Denby in China and Terrell in Turkey, it is a bad year for Christianity.

Administrative Achievements.

From the Boston Journal.

Washington's Administration established a Nation; Madison's prosecuted a war with England; Polk's conquered Mexico; Lincoln's freed the slaves; but the best that the Cleveland Administration can do one unfortunate citizen, unjustly imprisoned, is to secure him a table and a chair.

WELL-KNOWN ST. LOUISAN.

Samuel S. Pingree.

Samuel S. Pingree was born in Jefferson City, Mo. He was brought to St. Louis when but two years of age, and has made this city his home ever since. When a mere boy he secured a position with F. C. Taylor & Co., general commission merchants. Mr. Taylor died in 1889, leaving the business to his wife, from whom Mr. Pingree purchased an interest. He later bought the entire business. He is the youngest general commission man on Main street, being now in his 28th year.

MEN OF MARK.

George Gould is shooting prairie chickens near Winnipeg. It is only as a sportsman that Mr. Gould is overtaxed.

Barry Cornwall, who wrote "I'm on the Sea," couldn't cross the channel without suffering terribly. His wife used on such occasions to sing to him his own songs.

Of Paul Dubois' statue of Joan of Arc, recently erected in Paris, one writer says: "Its beauty is such that the first sight of it almost takes away one's breath."

Isom P. Haworth, a deaf mute shoemaker and printer, formerly of Neodesha, Kan., last week married Irene Martin, also a deaf mute, of Montgomery County. They will live on a farm in Montgomery County.

B. O. Flower, editor of the Arena and one of the most successful magazine makers in the country, is a pale and slender man of 40, who looks solemn enough in his pictures, but has a reputation among his friends as a humorist.

WOMEN OF NOTE.

Mrs. Charles Avery Doremus is the author of a splendid translation of Moliere's "Les Precieuses Ridicules."

Mrs. Oliphant, one of the most indefatigable writers of her time, has prepared a volume on Rome, which is to be published by Macmillan. It is to be uniform with her "Makers of Venice."

The close friendship between Queen Victoria and ex-Empress Eugenie continues undiminished. Eugenie has taken up her residence at the Castle of Abergeldie, which has been placed at her disposal by the Queen.

Misses Annie and Martha Alexander of Oakland, Cal., have just completed an 1,800-mile ride through Europe with their father. They averaged fifty miles a day, sometimes riding in rocky regions and over mountain passes. They met with no more serious accidents than the puncturing of their tires.

Lady Henry Somerset is going to make practical test of some of her theories about the cure of drunkenness. Jane Cakebread, who is now serving her 278th sentence for being drunk and disorderly, is to be the object of the experiment. When she is released she will be sent to a cottage in Surrey, where she will be comfortably housed and where her freedom will not be more interfered with than four miles' distance from the nearest public house will naturally interfere with it.

A RED-HOT ONE, TOO.

The Original Scorcher.

LIGHT, BUT CLEVER.

Mother: "Don't let that beau of yours kiss you any more." Daughter: "He can't, mamma; he's at it now every minute he is with me."

Beez: "When your wife complains of being sick what do you do?" Weez: "I wait and see if she goes out to the bargain sales. If she don't I send for the doctor."

Customer in Cheap Restaurant.—"Say, waiter, please take this steak back and swap it for anything you can find in the kitchen; it is so tough that I can't even bend it."

Pastor (to sexton): "Mr. Bloozin, why don't you see that the seats in the church are dusted once in a while?" Sexton: "I do, sir; the congregation does it every morning, sir."—Roxbury Gazette.

Softly: "Your trip to the mountains seems to have benefited you." Bilkins: "It has made a different man of me." Softly: "Is that so? Then what has become of the man I loaned $10 to when you left the city?"

Mother: "Ella, you have been playing all the afternoon with these toy soldiers. That's not a proper amusement for a big girl like you." Daughter: "But, mamma, I am not playing with the soldiers. I picked out the officers and played with them."—Texas Siftings.

BEATEN BY ROUGHS.

Brutal Assault on Editor Simon at Lemont, Ill.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 7.—W. Simon, editor of the Cook County News of Lemont, was assaulted and brutally kicked and beaten by a mob of roughs who, it is said, were led by C. A. Talty, brother-in-law of Mayor McCarthy. The affair occurred in the vicinity of the Chicago & Alton station at Lemont last evening. Simon was taken to his home. His head and the upper part of his body were covered with bruises. No bones were broken, but it is thought his injuries will confine him to the house for several days.

It is said the assault has been threatened for some time by Talty, who has said he would "do Simon up" because of matter which has appeared in the Lemont and Chicago papers and which has been credited to him.

A short time after the assault occurred, Simon sent John Kemmerlee to the telegraph office with dispatches for a Chicago morning paper. While wating at the office Kemmerlee was also assaulted and his dispatches were torn from his hand and carried away. In the excitement he did not see who his assailant was. He received a blow on the head, but was not seriously injured.

It was while Simon was going to the telegraph office earlier in the evening with these same dispatches that he was assaulted by Talty. Guards were placed last night around the house of both Rev. Mr. Clancy and Editor Simon. It was feared that there might be some attempt upon their lives. Talty is President of the Board of Education and has been proprietor of a saloon, the reputation of which was bad. No arrests have been made.

ELAINE GOODALE EASTMAN,

In Company With Her Indian Husband, Visits the East.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Elaine Goodale Eastman, the famous authoress and poet, wife of the Sioux Indian Dr. Charles A. Eastman, whose unconventional marriage at Ascension Church, on Fifth avenue, about four years ago excited so much interest in social and literary circles, has arrived in the city with her husband on a visit to her father, Henry R. Goodale. This is Mrs. Eastman's first visit to the East since her marriage, and she had many callers from among her literary friends. She is almost as youthful in appearance as when she stood a blushing bride at the altar. Her eyes are as bright as ever. To her other accomplishments she has added the charm of a public speaker and an address she made in the Baptist church on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street has excited the closest interest of a large congregation. Many of Mrs. Eastman's friends in Boston have been urging her to make this city her permanent home, but she appears to be much attached to the West, and it is probable that she will make her home permanently there.

FAMILY AFFRAY.

One Man Killed and Two Seriously Wounded.

GREENSBURG, Ind., Oct. 7.—The quiet town of Sandusky, five miles north of this city, was the scene of an affray in which one man was instantly killed and two others seriously injured. Taylor Goddard, the village merchant, is a son-in-law of David Seright. His wife died about six months ago and left a 2-year-old child, which has since been cared for by its grandparents. Sunday Goddard went to Serights and demanded the child. Seright refused to let him have it. Goddard drew a revolver and began firing, wounding Seright slightly. Goddard then left, but returned shortly with his father, James Goddard, who carried a club. They jerked Seright from his table and began beating him and shooting at him, whereupon Seright took a shotgun and fired, striking the elder Goddard in the abdomen, killing him instantly and seriously wounding Taylor Goddard.

Seright came here immediately and gave himself up. Both families are prominent and wealthy.

CARD-PLAYING COMMUTERS.

They May No Longer Be Permitted to Forget They Live in Jersey.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The Delaware & Lackawanna railroad has issued a singular order, forbidding its employes from bringing boards or card tables into suburban trains. Thereby hangs a tale. The Jersey Commuter plays whist. Four of him will insist on getting together in a car and producing a board and deck of cards from the baggage room, where they were stored, playing whist for all that there is out. If a stranger gets into their seat, life is made a burden for him unless he moves. This practice has become so general that the men who do not play have kicked so vigorously that the railroad company had to do something. The order to employes, mentioned above, was all they found themselves able to do in the matter.

Related to Ingersoll.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Maj. George Reno, the American correspondent, whose arrest at Nuevitas, Cuba, by the Spanish authorities was cabled, is a cousin of Mrs. Robt. G. Ingersoll and a second cousin of Maj. Reno of Custer massacre fame. Before Mr. Reno sailed for Cuba, Col. Ingersoll highly commended him in a letter to an editor as a man of honor and entirely trustworthy.

Mr. Reno is an actor by profession and supported James O'Neil for a season in "The Two Orphans." He was also manager of a company making a Western and a Southern tour a few years ago.

From one of Palmer's companies he drifted into newspaper work in the service of Outing, and became a traveling contributor. While waiting for a friend to secure capital and join him in a theatrical venture he wrote the play called "Cuba Libre."

While he was waiting for certain agents to settle their differences the editor of a magazine suggested that Reno go to Cuba as a correspondent for a syndicate of New York and Western papers and at the same time get material for magazine sketches. The Major finally took his friend's advice and sailed via Ardardau, two weeks ago, for Nuevitas. His passport came from Washington only a week or so before he sailed.

He carried no dispatches to Cubans. The Spanish authorities probably have no more reason for arresting him than any other American citizen in Cuba, as Col. Ingersoll doubtless will make it clear to Minister DeLome and the State Department.

Exports His Wages.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—The family of D. Martin Nicole, employed in a coal mine in Pennsylvania, is in Italy. Every two or three years he visits them. A few months ago he made a visit to his native land. He had $2,000. Saturday he returned to Italy. In the meantime complaint had been made to the Board of Inquiry at Ellis Island that Nicole carried off United States gold. The board caused his detention, but recommends that he be excluded. It is stated that the reason given is that he exports his wages.

Renounced the Catholic Faith.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Don Manuel Ferrando of Castile, a member of one of the oldest families of Spain, and formerly a superior for the order of Capuchin monks, has renounced the Roman Catholic Church and accepted the Protestant faith. By this act he lost an important mission of his old church, and will be disowned by his family.

He was formally received into the membership of the West End Presbyterian Church and will enter the ministry of the Presbyterian Church, having been a student at the Union Theological Seminary.

The Church Militant.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 7.—Fully 1,000 people were turned away Sunday from Willard Hall at the opening service of the Militant church, the new religious organization of which the Rev. John Rusk is pastor. Rev. Rusk preached the dedicatory sermon, taking for his subject, "The Church Militant and the Church Triumphant."

Seen on Broadway.

Broadway is alive these days with new fall costumes. The autumn girl is out in full force and her frocks are worth noting. One young person seen recently wore a cheviot gown, very simple, but effectively made. In color it was gray, with a woven line of dull, rich red. It was made merely with a round waist and full skirt, and if untrimmed would have been almost Quaker-like in its simplicity. But it was trimmed, and the trimming made the gown. It consisted of a collar, belt, deep cuffs and long bands of dark velvet, which were fastened with elaborate cut steel buttons. The effect of the gown was charming and the design well worth copying.

For the Complexion.

It is often a mistake for a woman to use certain face lotions because they seem to agree with and improve the skin of some other woman. A dry skin requires one kind of treatment, a very oily skin another, and even the different features of the same face different treatment. A Frenchwoman thinks that our countrywomen are slow to remember or think of this difference. She says: "If the skin be of good quality on all the face, with the exception of the nose, and the latter secretes too much oil, a bath with a sponge dipped in borax water will keep the nose in better condition, while the rest of the face would be injured and dried by borax."

Stuffed Potatoes.

Take six good sized potatoes, one gill of hot milk, two eggs, one tablespoonful of butter, one tea spoon of salt, a dash of pepper. Bake potatoes till done, cut in halves and with a spoon scrape out the potato into a hot bowl. Leave sufficient potato in the skins to keep them in shape. Mash the potato fine, add the butter, hot milk, salt and pepper. Beat until very light, then stir in carefully the beaten whites of the eggs. Fill the skins with the mixture, heaping it up. Brush over with yolk of egg and put in the oven until golden brown.

Nantucket Berry Pudding.

Wet with milk or water one pint of grated (raw) potatoes, one pint of flour, one-quarter of a pound of butter, one teaspoonful of salt, to the consistency of soft biscuit dough; roll it, spread with any berries, even dried ones, or Zante currants, or raisins; roll again and fasten in a cloth; steam one hour and a quarter; eat with sabyllon.

Color and Character.

Balzac once said that the way to gauge a woman's character was by her choice of colors, and that nothing expressed character so much as clothes. And he advised those in doubt as to how best they might reveal their innermost selves by their choice of garb what garments and what tones they must wear. For instance, if one reader has a lively expression, pale coloring, red lips, tawny hair and a round and full neck, she should place in her frizzled locks a crimson flower, her dress should be of red tulle, cut low to show the dazzling whiteness of her shoulders, long, floating sleeves of tulle, which will half conceal, half reveal her snowy arms, and a belt of red moire to encircle her flexible, but not slender waist. Never, under any circumstances, though, should she wear watery blues or ineffective drabs.

THE DOCTOR'S ADVICE.

Please suggest a simple remedy for hoarseness.

You may find a very good remedy in muriate of ammonia lozenges.

L. M. H.—Bathe your feet in warm water twice a day, dry thoroughly and use a powder composed of thirty grains of salicylic acid, one ounce of oxide of zinc and one ounce of lycopodium freely as a dusting powder.

Will you please print a good household remedy for burns?

You can make an excellent remedy by mixing equal parts of raw linseed oil and lime water.

I am frequently called upon to do more or less mental work and as a result I sometimes suffer from nervous headache. Will you please mention a remedy?

The granular effervescing preparation of hydrobromate of caffeine is usually beneficial in such cases. One or two teaspoonfuls should be taken as required.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE.

Mills and Morrison.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In the enclosed clipping Senator Mills expresses my ideas in regard to representatives. As far as I am now informed, am a strong silver man, a strong Democrat, and would willingly support as honest a man as William R. Morrison if he would say as much as Senator Mills has said prior to the National Convention. By doing so I believe he—as nominee of the Democratic National Convention—would have the support of all honest Democrats. Cleveland, by the common people, is regarded as little better as a representative Democrat than the Emperor of Russia. X. X.

As to Reincarnation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The writer of your editorial paragraphs is down on the doctrine of reincarnation. I used to think it a repulsive theory until I came across a statement in a theosophic work recently that reincarnation is not compulsory in any way. And it has often occurred to me that it might be highly desirable for one soul to reincarnate, while another might not have any need of doing so. For instance, where the parental instinct is exceptionally strong and yet the married couple are debarred from having any children.

Last week we had a case of a woman who while in the hospital to have a leg amputated bore a child, and after the operation had to return to jail with her baby. She was a negress who had been deceived by a false lover. The occurrence struck me in this way: First, she is a negress; then, she is deceived by a lover; tried to kill him and gets in jail; has to lose a limb and take her new born baby back to jail. What sort of fairness is there in a fate like that? Suppose this woman could have chosen her station in life, would she have chosen that? Is she not entitled to another chance?

War and the Poor.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am sorry that your correspondent, "T. E. M.," does not believe that an Englishman can possibly be free from prejudice against Ireland or give advice that an Irishman would desire to follow. Still, I assure him, I am absolutely without any but a fellow feeling for Irish men and women who are trying to better the condition of their countrymen. But I am sure war is not the way to do it.

The reason I do not believe in war helping the poor is because I am well acquainted with the hardships of the poor in England and know that their lot is no better than that of the poor in Ireland. After countless wars, the lot of the English artisan and laborer has not been bettered a whit and would not be through such means. After Ireland had obtained her "freedom" would not the landlord, the usurer and the monopolist still flourish as much as ever? Does not "T. E. M." know that even the great French revolution did nothing to really free the workingman? It simply let things loose for the commercial classes, upsetting the aristocracy and the church. And all the mighty wars that France waged before and since then have never benefited her working classes one iota. ANGLO-AMERICAN.

The Cleaning of Bell Avenue.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In behalf of the residents of Bell avenue, between Channing and Grand avenue, I wish through your columns to extend a vote of thanks to the Street Commissioner and his able assistants, for the cleaning of street above mentioned. When it becomes known that there was a possibility that the street in question was to be cleaned, crowds gathered early in the morn, every window was crowded to its utmost capacity with eager eyes, anxious to obtain a view of the great work.

Had we been apprised of the fact that the work was to be done, we should have asked the Exposition management to close its doors for the afternoon and allow Prof. Sousa and his cohorts to dispense sweet music during the afternoon and aid us in giving the knights of hoe, shovel and cart a glad, glad welcome, thus making the day a gala one, a day long to be remembered. But our oldest inhabitants, when apprised of the fact that the street in which they lived was to be treated in the same manner as other streets, merely shook their heads and said, not yet; not yet. What a pleasant disappointment it was to the young and old, to our relatives and friends (who can now call on us) when the "Knights" arrived and spat on their hands, wearing this-is-a-tougher-job-than-the-Panama-Canal expression. There was great joy on our thoroughfare. To-day all is again quiet and clean, with the accent on the clean.

We shall journey on through life watching and waiting for another visit from the "Knights" who did such noble work Oct. 4, 1895.

We have patience; yea, tons of it; in fact, we have patience for sale, hence if we are assured the work in question will be repeated Oct. 4, 1900, we are willing to wait without a murmur, and during the five years to come will be happy by recalling the great work which was accomplished Oct. 4, 1895.

Photographs of Bell ave, from Grand avenue looking east, taken when the work was in progress, can be obtained at the City Hall, second floor. WILLIE CLEANITAGAIN.

A Doctor Denounces Anti-Toxin.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The term diphtheria has become so fashionable of late through the advent of the anti-toxin fad and the agitation of the subject by the various health boards that we imagine we see Klebs-Loeffler bacilli gleefully disporting themselves every time we glance down a patient's throat.

To one blessed or cursed with an analytical turn of mind anti-toxin possesses but one element of grace, and that is the 5 percent of carbolic acid it contains, and which is an antiseptic and antipyretic of no mean value. But why insist on giving it through the medium of the poisoned serum of the antiquated horse? How much better to use pure distilled water, and thus avoid the dangers and complications which often follow the use of anti-toxin. Favorable statistics for this fad have been drawn from just such cases as the above. They will recover, with good nursing, on almost any or no treatment. And it is wonderful how a disease multiplies when the subject is agitated. Sore throats which had hitherto been successfully treated by simple domestic regimen have been hurried to the hospital to swell the long list of recoveries underthe great discovery. The mortality of diphtheria, according to Lewis Smith, ranges between 5 and 33 per cent, according to the mildness or severity of the epidemic. Anti-toxin has not improved upon this. The mild cases have recovered and the bad ones died, as they always have and always will, because the vitality of the patient is the potential factor in the case.

Anti-toxin will not cure diphtheria, but where it is given cases of follicular tonsilitis and mild cases of diphtheria will recover despite its use, because supporting measures and proper local treatment are employed in conjunction with the serum. But it is neither rational nor scientific to lend the support of the profession to a remedy which is nothing more nor less than a fraud upon common sense.

CITY PRACTIONER.

St. Louis, Oct. 3.

Absorbers Despise Patriotism.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The rack-renting multitude greatly rejoices that Tax-eater Scully is about to become an American citizen. What of it? Those whom he now legally robs of the unearned increment will be no better off. American citizen or British subject, the tenants will continue to pay tribute to him and receive nothing in return. To the robbed it is immaterial what flag the plunderer swears by or where he lives, he always gets something for nothing.

Mr. Scully will solemnly swear allegiance to these United States, as usual collect economic rent and spend it wherever he pleases. Mr. W. W. Astor, at one time, lived and collected ground rent in New York. He now lives in England, but still gathers the shekels from his New York serfs. The latter had nothing when Mr. Astor was an American citizen, and they have no more since he roars in imitation of the consumptive British lion.

It may be sweet and glorious to die for one's country, but when some other fellow owns the country and compel one to die by means of involuntary poverty, misery, degradation and industrial slavery, the sweetness and glory is not for the [illegible] those who give up their lives for what belongs to them as much as to the [illegible] hold evidences of [illegible]

THE TERRITORY IS CLOSED.

Corbett and Fitzsimmons Cannot Fight There,

NOT EVEN AS INDIANS.

The United States Commissioner Issues Stringent Orders in Regard to the Big Mill.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 7.—Commissioner Browning of the Indian Office has taken prompt and decisive steps to prevent the Corbett-Fitzsimmons prize-fight taking place in the Indian Territory. He has prepared a letter of instructions to Agent Wisdom at Muscogee, I. T., directing him to see that the laws are enforced and to eject forcibly any intruders who may enter the Indian country for the purpose of creating a disturbance or of engaging in anything that may be detrimental to the Indians. The Commissioner says that the statutes are ample to cover the situation and to prevent the fight. The agent will have at his back not only the Indian Police, but all the United States troops necessary to eject the fighters.

The statutes give the United States authority to keep out of the Indian Territory all persons whose presence would be detrimental to the peace and prosperity of the Indians. The Commissioner says there is no doubt that the presence of the prize-fighters and the gang that would follow them into the Indian country would be very detrimental to the Indians, and that it is therefore the duty of the Indian Office to keep them out. He says that the agent at Muscogee has not as much authority as the agents on reservations, but, nevertheless, has enough to prevent the fight taking place in the Territory of the five civilized tribes. The Commissioner intends also to notify all the Governors and head men of the five civilized tribes that they must not allow the fight to take place and must assist the United States authorities in preventing it.

Commissioner Browning was asked if the admission of Corbett, Fitzsimmons and others connected with the fight to citizenship in one of the tribes would make any difference in the authority of the Government, and he said it would not change the conditions in the least. The Government has the power to expel a full-blooded Indian from the Territory if the peace and good order of the Indians require it.

NOT IN ILLINOIS.

Gov. Altgeld Does Not Want Any Prize Fighting There.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Oct. 7.—Gov. Altgeld, when asked what course he would take in case an attempt was made to pull off the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight on an island in the Illinois river near Henry, Ill., said: "I don't know where the island is, nor do I know of any projected prize fight, but if it is on Illinois soil we will do all in our power to prevent any prize fight taking place there. The enforcement of the law rests primarily with the local authorities, but if it becomes necessary for the State to take a hand you may say that I will use every effort to prevent the fight."

The Governor has no doubt as to his ability and his right to uphold the laws of Illinois. Further than the above, however, he would say nothing.

Boxing and Wrestling Tournament.

The first indoor tournament of the West End Athletic Club will take place Nov. 2 and 4. A series of boxing and wrestling bouts will be arranged. Entries can now be made at the club house.

FREEDMAN'S WOES.

The Giants Consider Their Contracts for the Season of 1896.

The Giants are not at all pleased with President Freedman and may cause him some trouble about contracts. As the boys were leaving to play an exhibition game in a small town last week they were handed contracts for 1896. Some of the boys tucked the contracts away in their pockets and said they might sign later. Others absolutely refused to sign, while still others grabbed a pen, stuck it in an ink bottle, and in big, glaring letters affixed their signatures. George Davis, Harry Davis, the new first baseman; Larry Batton, the new third baseman, and Doheny, one of the new pitchers, were the ones who signed. Fred Pfeffer, who signed during the summer, makes the fifth man who is now under contract with the club.

* * *

Freedman appears to be the prime bluffer of the League Circuit. He makes offers for players with a bombast and flourish of trumpets that can be heard all over the land. And when he does make these attempts to secure players he does not reach out for the common herd. The good is not even up to his standard. He must have the best or none at all; and he generally gets the last named. His latest proclamation in the way of an offer is a bid for Patsey Tebeau of the Clevelands. Mr. Freedman says that if President Robison will put a fair price on the release of Tebeau he will buy it. Now, Mr. Freedman knows as well as anybody—or should know at least—that Cleveland would not let this brainy young man go to any other team. He is too valuable man to be sold "at a fair price," and no will hear of his being measured for a York uniform very soon.

* * *

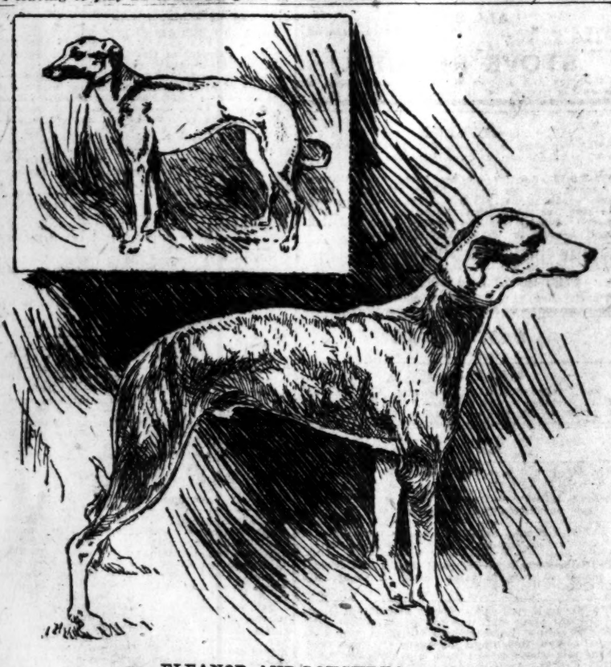

esident Freedman of the New York has hit upon a plan to keep his rs in good physical condition next . He says: "I intend to engage a sional trainer next season, whose uty will be to look after the condition players. If any of them violate the rules of the club he will know of it, and when he says a player has got out of shape because of dissipation, the player will be immediately suspended, without pay. The trainer will travel with the team and have absolute charge of the condition of the men. There will also be a manager, who will have power to govern the playing of the team according to his own ideas. There will be no more drinking and carousing, for such offenders will be severely dealt with."

* * *

"It would pay the National League to send two teams of its best players to England some October to play in the principal cities on days previously named and advertised," says O. P. Caylor. "A tour of this kind, with the genuine article of ball, ought to plant the seed of the base ball craze in England and cause the sport to take root professionally over there. If the day ever does come when England takes up base ball professionally, there will be a chance for international contests on the diamond, which will eclipse the interest in yachting, athletic and aquatic contests."

Manager McCloskey has been re-engaged to handle the Louisville club next season.

George Tebeau has made application for Denver, Western League franchise.

The Browns defeated the Future Capitols at Sedalia Sunday by a score of 6 to 1.

Herman Long, the crack short stop of the Boston League Club, is paying St. Louis a visit.

Pat Tebeau's St. Louis friends are anxious for him to rub it into Baltimore, by winning four straight.

George Shafer, who used to cover right field for the old St. Louis Maroons, is now making book at Latonia.

Two St. Louis boys ranked with the best pitchers in the Western League this season. They were Frank Pears, who was with Detroit, and Long John Healy, who was with Minneapolis.

The New York Club will have the services of a professional trainer next year, and the management expects to see a big improvement in the condition of the players.

NO GAME.

Yale and Harvard Will Not Meet on the Gridiron This Year.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—A special to the Press from New Haven, Conn., says: "I see no possible chance for a Yale-Harvard foot ball game this year," said Manager Foote of the Yale eleven. "I thought last Friday that there might possibly be a reconciliation, but now I see no opportunity for one. One thing is certain, Yale will take no offer for a provisional game with Harvard, as rumored. Yale has not altered her position, and she will not. There is no change in Yale's attitude. Last spring a letter was written to Harvard asking if certain statements derogatory to Yale were true. We did not ask Harvard to apologize, as certain Harvard authorities interpreted the communication."

HARD TO BEAR.

English Press Comments on Yale's Victory Over Cambridge.

LONDON, Oct. 7.—The Globe, alluding to the defeat of the Cambridge University team by the Yale athletics, says:

"Their defeat was hardly expected; but so entire a Yale triumph has seemed altogether out of the question. If America cannot prove her claim on the river she, at all events, is vastly superior to England on the track. If we wish to attain the American standard thre must be an alteration in current theories here."

The Pall Mall Gazette says on the same subject: "Until both sides are willing to devote as many months of training as they now do weeks, the Americans will always win in America and the Englishmen in England."

The St. James Gazette scouts the idea, freely expressed here, that Oxford was lucky to beat Yale in 1894 and adds: "Cambridge's win over Oxford in 1895 was very lucky, depending entirely upon Mendelson's unexpected win in the long jump."

M'GREW GUARDS PENNANT.

The Soldier Cyclers Will Receive the Trophy They Won To-Night.

The McGrew Guards will hold their regular meeting this evening and receive the banner the Cycle Club won in the parade some time ago. The members of the Associated Cycling Clubs will meet at the St. Louis Cycling Club at 7:30 o'clock and go in a body to the Armory and make the presentation.

The McGrew Guards are nearly all enthusiastic wheelmen and they won the pennant for having the largest number of members in the parade.

Larabie was not injured seriously and will start in the $25,000 Trotting Futurity at Lexington.

"Lucky" Baldwin's stable, including Rey el Santa Anita and Rey del Carerres, will be here for the fall meeting at the Fair Grounds.

Ed Corrigan led the winning owners at Oakley with $3,726 to his credit. Green Morris won $3,187, and Barney Schreiber $1,729.

The report that Phil Dwyer had sold the great 2-year-old Applegate to Frank Beard, the owner of Lazzarone, was incorrect.

The match between Pedler Palmer and Billy Plimmer will take place Oct. 18, for £2,500 a side and a purse of $2,500, before the National Sporting Club, London, England.

The County tour of the St. Louis cyclists, which was to have taken place yesterday, had to be postponed until next Sunday, on account of the inclement weather.

PACER SMITH HANGS NOV. 29

"I Am So Glad!" His Wife Cried, When Sentence Was Passed.

HE HAD KILLED THEIR CHILD.

The Prisoner Asked to Be Executed Feb. 16, Which is His Victim's Birthday.

DECATUR, [illegible] Oct. 7.—Charles N. Smith was to-day sentenced to hang Nov. 29. There was a very dramatic scene in court. When sentence was pronounced the mother of the child murdered by Smith cried out: "I am so glad."

Smith murdered his daughter Louise Smith and his sister-in-law, Edna Buchert, nine days ago and pleaded guilty before Judge Vail Thursday, Oct. 3. When Smith to-day was again brought before Judge Vail, who had expressed a desire to hear witnesses in the case, a big crowd was present. The witnesses were Michael Dugan, of whom Smith borrowed the revolver, Frank Buchert, father of Edna and grandfather of Louise, and the officers who made the arrest. They described the murder and showed that Smith's relations with his wife's family had always been pleasant. No evidence was offered by Smith, who sat through it all unmoved. At the close of the evidence the Judge asked Smith if he had any statement to make. He hesitated, then said:

"If I am sentenced to be hung, which I hope to be, I would like to have the 16th of February. I have a reason for it."

The Judge said: "If you have a statement to make as to what your reason was for committing this murder, I would like to hear you make it."

Smith said: "I borrowed a gun on purpose to go down and kill my wife and the baby. I understood if I came up and pleaded guilty I would be hung, and I am willing to do it. But I would like to have my time put off until that day. I am willing to face anything and anybody."

The Judge said: "When a man commits murder he puts himself in a position to be hung, to be sent to prison for life, or for a term of not less than fourteen years. There may be reasons, circumstances in which a man may have been injured in his family, his person, his property. There is not much light on this case as to the relations between husband and wife, but it appears that he was welcome at the house and frequently ate there.

"No ill-feeling against him is shown. He comes here and pleads guilty to killing his child. I cannot see how a man can have ill-feeling enough against a 5-year-old child to make him want to kill it. I cannot understand how a child of that age can do a man any serious harm. He must be lost to all sense of social duty, unless he is out of his head. I cannot find any excuse for this murder. This is a case that calls for the extremest penalty. If Mr. Smith has anything to say in extenuation of his crime or why sentence should not be passed on him, I would like to hear it."

Smith made no reply, but stood up when motioned to do so.

The judge then sentenced him to be hanged on Friday, Nov. 29. Smith heard it unmoved and at last quietly said:

"Thank you."

At the last word from the judge there was an outbreak of applause and a shriek from the prisoner's wife, the mother of the murdered girl. "Oh, the slayer of my child has got what he deserved," she cried.

"Thank God he has got his dues; I am so glad; I am so glad."

She was taken from the court-room shrieking and sobbing. Her father went around shaking hands and saying, "That is all I wanted."

Smith went out through the excited crowd, the calmest one there. February 16 is the baby's birthday.

SIX POWERS' DEMANDS.

Turkey Must Make Rigorous Inquiry Into Recent Armenian Outrages.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 4 (via Sofia, Oct. 7).—The representatives of the six powers have sent a collective note to the Turkish Government calling attention to the inadequate measures taken by the police authorities to maintain public tranquility in Constantinople and suburbs, and demanding the prompt institution of a vigorous inquiry into the recent rioting, bloodshed and wholesale imprisonment of Armenians here. In addition the powers demand the release of all prisoners who are innocent of wrong-doing, and the cessation of arrests.

Said Pasha, the new Turkish Minister for Foreign Affairs, has called at the different embassies, and has presented to the representatives of the powers a communication from the Turkish Government, repeating the assurance that a plan for reform in Armenia has been accepted by the Porte. It is not believed, however, that this will satisfy the powers. There have been no further excesses, however, although a feeling of great disquiet still prevails, and fresh demonstrations upon the part of the Armenians are feared.

ABUSED AN ASYLUM NURSE.

Mrs. Kate Powers Fined $50 in the First Police Court.

Mrs. Kate Powers, of 1925 North Tenth street, about 60 years old, whose gray hairs and respectable appearance seemed sadly out of place in the prisoners' cage, was before Judge Peabody Monday charged with disturbing the peace. She has a daughter who is an inmate of the Insane Asylum. Miss Maggie Shea, a nurse at the institution, stated that Mrs. Powers went to the asylum Sunday afternoon in an intoxicated condition and called her vile names. She also accused her of stealing her (Mrs. Powers') daughter's clothing. Here story was corroborated by several attendants.

Mrs. Powers denied their statements. She said that since her daughter has been at the asylum she has always provided her with underwear. When she went to see her daughter yesterday she found her underclothing gone and was told by her that the nurse had taken it away. She took Miss Shea to task about it and the latter had her arrested. Judge Peabody fined Mrs. Powers $50.

As detailed in Sunday's Post-Dispatch Hampshire won because he was game and Reed lost because, as he said, he ate too much apple pie for supper.

But he is not satisfied. The love of the girl, pride and a small purse have induced him to try again, and the day has been set for another contest. The young lady in the case has consented and Hampshire is willing. The fight will be to a knock-out. In case of both of them going to "sleep" the one first awakening will be declared the winner.

THE MARKETS.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 7.

A private Berlin cable reports a decline there in wheat equal to 2¼c, as the Russian grain trade is affected by financial affairs, the Russian Government refusing further advances on grain and holders are anxious to sell. Continental markets are well supplied. Further declines anticipated. To give backing to this discouraging statement, Black Sea ports' shipments are reported at 4,556,000 bu, most of which supposed to be from Russia. A private London cable also reports Russia offering freely.

It is encouraging to read such a statement as the following written by a general merchandise firm of Gloster, Miss.: "We are havoing the best collections we have had for over ten years, furnished on 4c cotton and collecting at 8¾@10c for fancy goods."

Argentine shipments of corn last week are now placed at 1,064,000 bu, but no wheat exported.

WHEAT.

If the market conditions had been fashioned to order for the bears, they could not have favored them more than did those of this morning. Added to surprisingly heavy receipts on this side were a series of demoralising foreign cables. Even the weather was arrayed on the side of the short seller, showers having been general in winter wheat sections where drouth had been preventing seeding. Northwestern receipts of spring wheat alone were enough to knock domestic markets down, they amounting to 1,966 cars, or nearly 900 cars larger than a year ago. St. Louis receipts footed up the surprising total of 62,500 bu, against 28,500 bu last year, while Chicago had 275 cars, against 118 a year ago. Cables ranged from dull at London to ½d lower at Liverpool for the public; while private cables reported Russia selling freely, owing to the Russian Government refusing further advances on grain. To confirm this were large Black Sea shipments and the total output afloat for Europe last week placed at 7,820,000 bu. It is not surprising that domestic markets were most unfavorably affected by this mass of depressing evidence and a general decline took place. This was checked by a prospective smaller increase in the visible than expected.

The increase proved to be 1,064,000 bu, where at least 2,000,000 bu had been looked for. Principal increases were 367,000 bu at Minneapolis, 373,000 at Chicago, 99,000 at Kansas City, 50,000 at Detroit, 32,000 at Toledo, 69,000 at the seaboard, 861,000 bu on lakes. Largest decreases, 263,000 bu at St. Louis, 280,000 at Duluth, 197,000 at Buffalo, 456,000 on canal. The amount afloat for Europe showed a decrease of 400,000 bu, which also had a strengthening effect.

The market did not hold the rally from the bottom and fell back again, but was not so weak as earlier.

Spot grades—Lower. A very dull market on call. No. 2 red offered regular at 62¼c, and only bid was 60c east side. No. 3 red sold in Farmers' at 60¼c; bid 60c regular, 60⅛c east side. No. 4 winter offered in St. Louis at 58⅝c, bid 58¼c for Farmers', 55¼c east side. No. 2 hard winter offered at 61½c and No. 3 do at 58c, no bids. No. 2 spring offered at 60c in St. Louis, bid 59c, and for east side 60c bid.

CORN.

There was nothing unfavorable in weather conditions and predictions were for clearing and colder; receipts were larger locally and at Chicago were 737 cars, against 128 one year ago, and Liverpool dull at ¼d decline, yet notwithstanding these adverse factors and the great weakness and the decline in wheat, corn did not display much weakness itself this morning.

The visible decreased 37,000 bu. Principal changes were 377,000 bu decrease at St. Louis, 85,000 at the seaboard, 42,000 at Toledo, 75,000 on canal and 63,000 bu on the river, and 202,000 increase at Chicago, 82,000 at Buffalo, 225,000 on lakes. The amount afloat decreased 320,000 bu.

Spot grades—No. 2 held ½c higher on call at 26⅛c, at which St. Louis offered, but only a car lot demand; 26¼c was bid this side and 26⅛c for Central, Farmers' and east side. No. 2 white was firm and in demand, with 27¼c bid St. Louis, Farmers' and Terminal, 26⅝c for Advance, but none offered. Lower grades neglected.

OATS.

Continued heavy receipts, 966,000 bu, arriving at Chicago and St. Louis alone, depressed the future market still more this morning. The visible also showed an increase of 710,000 bu.

Spot grades—Lower. No. 2 offered regular at 17⅝c, bid 17¼c for United. No. 3 sold in United at 16½c, but Farmers' offered at that. No. 4 offered in Farmers' at 15c and 14⅝c bid United. No. 2 white 18¼c bid United. No. 3 do sold in United at 17¼@17½c.

RYE.

Steady, but quiet. No. 2 offered on call at 38¼c, bid 37c, and No. 3 sold track this side at 36c. For No. 2 for May 43c bid.

HAY.

Received, 962 tons; shipped, 476 tons. A very active market to-day and a slight improvement to note in the quality of receipts. Choice timothy is strong, while inferior grades show not the least change for the better. More inquiry was reported for clover, but the best grades are what buyers are after. Straw steady, but quiet.

Sales: Track and Warehouse—This side—Prairie—1 car No. 3 (storage paid) at $5, 1 No. 2 at $6, 1 No. 1 at $7, 2 do at $7.50, 1 choice at $8, 1 do at $8.50. Mixed—2 cars at $9. The bears made a determined drive against the market after 10:15 and sent Tobacco down 1⅝, Leather (pfd) 1⅛ and Missouri Pacific and Rock Island 1. The general market gave way fractionally. At 11 o'clock speculation continued weak.

The reactionary movement was checked after 11 o'clock and a general fractional rally ensued. Recessions in other stocks are noted extending to ⅞ per cent. The market at noon continued weak and was very quiet. DIVIDED ABOUT DEBS.

Labor Organizations Are Not Unanimous in Honoring Him.

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The Labor Congress has reported that arrangements for the reception to E. V. Debs, on his release from Woodstock, are progressing, but at the meeting of the Trade and Labor Assembly several delegates expressed their disgust with the entire matter, and said they had come to the conclusion that Debs was not much of a martyr after all. It developed later that the officers of the Trade and Labor Assembly claim to have discovered that upon his release President Debs will enter upon what they call a war on trade unions, and will endeavor to establish a political labor organization which will have its headquarters in Chicago. There is considerable amusement among old time trade unionists over the efforts of a committee representing the recently organized Labor Congress to get the railroads to grant a special rate of fare to those who will go to Woodstock to do honor to President Debs.

SUPREME COURT.

All the Justices, Except Judge Gray, Are in Washington.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—With the exception of Justice Gray all of the Supreme Court Justices have returned to Washington in anticipation of the opening of the fall term of court. The recess has given time for the members to consider cases which were submitted but not decided at the last term. Among these is the litigation of the Consolidated Electric Lighting Company, involving a number of patents connected with the electric light. Other cases in which decisions are expected are:

The United States against the Western Union Telegraph Company, involving the question of telegraphic rates against the Government along the Union Pacific lines; the Sioux City & St. Paul Railroad Company against the United States, involving the ownership of land grants in Iowa; Gilfillan against McKee, involving a part of the moneys appropriated to settle the Choctaw claims; Meyer against Richards, which is a suit growing out of the irregular re-issuance of bonds which had been cancelled by the Treasurer of Louisiana.

An interesting case remaining to be decided is that of John G. Moore against the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, asking that the Commissioner be enjoined from ... of the income tax. ... suits begun at the ... passed upon the ... undecided. It is of ... ce now that the law ... nconstitutional, yet it ... d a basis for another ... ome tax, not on the merits ... t for an injunction. ... t opinion on the question of ... ments is also expected. The ... it was decided at the end of the ..., it being held that a French ... could not be collected in American ... It was an oral decision, however, ... t yet remains for the court to hand ... the full opinion.

RELIGION ... THE GOVERNORS

Church Affiliation of the Men Who Rule Fourty-Four States.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 7.—Of the forty-four State Governors in the American Union thirty-nine are avowed believers in religion, twenty-nine are known as Christians, most of them are regular attendants at worship and a vast majority are contributors to the expense of religious work.

A careful canvass of the subject made by the Times-Herald discloses these facts. Responses were obtained from forty-three of the State Governors and three of the Territorial executives. Of the State Governors one, Mr. Culberson of Texas, declined to define his sentiments, and no one would speak for him, and another, Gov. Evans of South Carolina, failed to respond in any way. But those of the other States spoke freely and frankly, and it is ascertained that among them there are ten Presbyterians, five Congregationalists, five Episcopalians, four Methodists, three Unitarians, one Christian and sixteen unconnected with church organizations. Of the sixteen Governors of States and Territories unattached to denominational organizations twelve attend religious services regularly or intermittently, and all except two, one a Universalist and the other a free thinker, believe in the Christian religion and its plan of salvation. Ten of them have denominational preference, and even those without such predilection entertain a kindly feeling for the work and an appreciation of its beneficent results. Of them three are Methodists, one Congregationalist, one Episcopalian and one Baptist of the Reform Church. Sectionalism cuts no figure in the religious preferences of the Governors, except that most of the Congregationalists are New Englanders and a majority of the Presbyterians Southerners. But each of the religious bodies have representation in every section.

The most conspicuous of the Methodist Governors are: Wm. McKinley of Ohio and Daniel H. Hastings, and, curiously enough, both are presidential candidates. Other governors who attend that church are Stone of Mississippi, Cleaves of Maine, Clarke of Arkansas, Rickards of Montana and Foster of Louisiana. The Presbyterian fold embraces Governors Matthews of Indiana, Allen of North Dakota, O'Ferrall of Virginia, Brown of Maryland, Renfrew of Oklahoma and Jefferson Gardner, Chief of the Choctaw Nation in the Indian Territory. Among those who lean on that substantial religious reed are Stone of Missouri, Clough of Minnesota and Jackson of Iowa. Governors Morton of New York, a presidential candidate, Turner of Tennessee, Watson of Delaware, Prince of New Mexico and Carr of North Caroline are Episcopalians.

Gov. Budd of California, in his reply to the Times-Herald, says he has no religion, but believes in the observance of Sunday as the day of rest. His parents are not believers and he was brought up as a free thinker.

Gov. Oates of Alabama says he is not a member of any church, and that he never joined but two institutions—the Masonic fraternity and the Democraitc party. Gov. McIntyre of Colorado affiliates with the Liberals, but is not an infrequent attendant at Unitarian Church. The Unitarians are Greenhalge of Massachusetts, Morrill of Kansas and Lippitt of Rhode Island.

HE KIDNAPPED THE BABY.

But Mr. Hustler's Hustling Proved of No Avail.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

ASBURY PARK, N. J., Oct. 7.—H. Hustler, accompanied by his sister, arrived here to-day armed with a nursing bottle. They constituted an expedition bent on kidnapping Mr. Hustler's baby, held in the custody of his wife. Mr. Hustler left his sister at the Hotel Vendome and then hustled over to No. 707 Asbury avenue, where his wife lives with her parents. His wife, who is a mere girl, with dark hair and pretty eyes, says she left her husband because he could not provide for her. That was some months ago.

His wife received him cordially and invited him to dinner. His answer was that he had just dined, and that he would wait in the parlor till the conclusion of the meal. In there he found the baby, and wrapping it in his coat, proceeded to escape. As he passed the dining-room door the youngster gave a yell. Its mother ran out and saw Mr. Hustler hustling down the street as fast as his legs would hustle him. The entire family dropped their meal and went in pursuit, the men with napkins tied around their necks. Hustler dodged up alleys and around corners until he reached the Hotel Vendome. There he gathered up his sister. They jumped on a trolley car bound for Interlaken.

Mrs. Hustler found Constable Hulick on the way and got him to join the chase. The entire family and the Constable intercepted Hustler just as he was going to board a train for New York. There was a struggle for the baby, but its mother got it, although Mr. Hustler tugged wildly at it, and yelled: "It's mine and I mean to have it."

"He was holding it upside down," said Mrs. Hustler, indignantly.

Then she clasped it to her bosom and called it pet names.

"It's muzzer will never 'eave oo again," she cooed. "My husband's jealous," she added to a reporter, "and he tried to steal baby once before, but he did not get it. I won't live with him now, no matter what he does."

So Mr. Hustler's hustling was a dire failure this time. He hustled back to New York, rather crestfallen.

PAPER TRUST ALARMED.

Exposure of the Scheme to Inflate the Capital Stock.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Thre is consternation among the promoters of the scheme to combine the plants and properties of the large manufacture of white news paper in New England in a trust agreement. They fear that bankers and investors will be frightened by the exposure of the fact that the capital of $35,000,000 under which they propose to organize would represent an inflation of not less than $25,000,000, as all of those plants and properties could be replaced by an investment of $10,000,000, when made by men whose purpose it was to supply the market and earn a reasonable profit on sound business principles.

The stock of the paper trust, if it is ever issued, will find its way into the hands of the Wall street operators who may be chosen to manipulate it, just as the stock of the Cordage Trust and of the Whisky Trust did. If dividends could ever be earned upon such a capital it would have to be by extortion. It is the purpose of the trust to make its earnings in this way. Their decision already arrived at to raise the price of paper to 2¼ cents a pound would mean that the publishers would be forced to pay an annual tribute of more than $6,000,000 on the 1,200 tons of newspaper which they consume each day. As the trust proposes to control only 900 tons per day of the 1,200 tons of output, as the raising of prices by the trust would stimulate competition, cause the manufacturers outside of the trust to add to their plants and increase their product, and cause the makers of book and of writing paper to put their machines at work making news paper instead, the shrewdest men in the trade declare that the trust will find itself unable to carry out its plans.

The promoters of the trust argue that the price of news paper has fallen so low that they must combine to raise it. That is not true. The mills in the proposed trust can deliver their product in New York and other markets for 1.60 cents pound, and then make an annual profit of 18 per cent on their investment. The trust promoters propose to jump the price to 2.50 cents.

CHILLICOTHE, Mo., Oct. 7.—The first attempt at Sunday theatricals was made here last night, when Al H. Spink tried to put on "The Derby Winner" at the Luella Grand. He made an inglorious failure.
